On the brink . . . he stood, with only the dream of the cities, the million books, the spectral images of the people he had loved, who had loved him, whom he had known and lost. They will not come again. They never will come back again.

THOMAS WOLFE

The college years are suspension. They are a time of constant growth and lightning change—a discovery of fresh ideas and dormant emotions — confusing years, filled with introspection. A time of new beginnings to age-old quests—What can I be? Where do I go? They are a vibrant span, crowded with images and vague nostalgia. These are the Gothic windows, the Georgian columns. These are the college years, and this is Duke.

An earthy town lies covered in a blanket of brown leaves wrapped in white paper. No plan, this town with its small shops and oil-stained tracks. This, too, explored, endured, or only missed. At the edge of town, a grayish wall surrounds a self-sustaining community. This settlement is divided east from west by a bridge, forever changing colors, and a road confined between old dwellings and wide fields. The West land is like the wall, a mass of uneven stone and multi-colored roofs. Like the bridge, it changes colors, but only in the sun and in the rain. Towers strain upward from the mass—towers of authority and knowledge, of healing time and God. They are unnoticed or shaken, torn apart, tabled, forgotten, yet stand unmoved. Where heavy slabs and buildings have not conquered, grass, protected by chains, still grows. West is order, peace; it reeks of thought. It is eternal, but for the marble steps, quietly eroded by the passage of eager feet. Feet of a faceless stream, shifting, searching, for lost answers to forgotten questions. A passing stream of varied currents and new sources. It is a kaleidoscopic stream filled with countless bits of humanity. It is lifeblood pulsing through Gothic structures and musty volumes. This faceless horde, the essence of the University.

Undulating, spreading, the stream floods dim cells cluttered with scrawled paper and unmade beds. It stretches into boxes, sole link with the other world, and into classrooms to be cleansed and molded. It knows red-cushioned booths and yellow figures behind long counters. It feels the biting wind and seldom snow. The stream grows used to rain, to dirty forks, to unread pages and filled ashtrays. It struggles incessantly to balance the internal, external forces which will not stop their change.

The stream rushes down steps to waiting cars and travels the road back through the bridge to the East land—brick red and white, enveloped in magnolia leaves. This land is different from the West, yet part of it. Here, too, is peace, order, and thought which rules unchallenged. Another stream pours forth to join the western one. Their mingled currents twist in cadence to steel guitars and dark voices. As one, they down the gold liquid in silvered cans and wait in alleys to consume hot cheese on heavy dough. They move together to wail the praise of blue and white uniforms on green fields or wooden courts. They find deep forests with blankets, plaid coolers, and good intentions. They know each other for an instant or forever. They dream, discovering new corners in familiar minds, new turns in well-trod hearts. They feel the night, but are conscious only of the stars and soft moon-shadows. Engulfed, enraptured, they share the thousand feelings of their experience.

They are aware—painfully—of immediate, day-to-day existence, of unrelenting evaluation, of ceaseless change. The stream swells to fruition, self-knowledge, then disperses through the broad gates of rough-hewn stone. A stream bursting with the memory of these years which are no more and cannot be again.

The broad stream is too shallow; there is a deeper knowledge, more intimate, more exact. It is the pattern of the single particle. This, the understanding of torment, joy, inertia, spoil. Isolated, observed, he watched the phases of his own self-change, so much the same, yet different from the rest.

August melts into September, and with this merging comes a torrent to refresh the stream. He was part of this; burdened with the same apprehensions and bulging suitcases, he came within the wall. Nothing here, but horrible loneliness. Unknown and unknowing, he wanted to shout and tell what he had done, but no one seemed to care. Uneasy laughter, nervous chatter, desperate longing to be part of something, to belong. Older faces—more confident in white shirt-sleeves and pleated skirts beckoned to him with the promise of forbidden fruit, answers to his unknown questions. He rediscovered home; this time a pigeon hole on the fourth floor, built for one but occupied by three. Then, a tag—his first—proclaimed his name, hometown, to all he met. Sleepless nights and endless tests—no knowledge given, only drained in huge, hot classrooms filled with more strange faces. He found the twilight zone of gray suspension, waiting — but for what? Suddenly, wheels resume their turning; the stream, its flow. More of the older, knowing faces and a pattern of classrooms, labs takes shape. He sees familiar features, buildings, people. He shares the unstructured independence of these years and joins his complaints of early hours and wretched food to theirs. Bluebooks, weekly themes—filled in and handed back. No longer excellent, superior, or even good; and so begins the swift destruction of old-self until no shred of confidence is left, only a leveled surface waiting for reconstruction.

Eastward, she struggled with the same uneasy sickness, loneliness, and mass confusion. Her world far less transient than his; her scars and feelings deeper, but of a different breed. Stiff, pasty smiles—classrooms full of bodies covered with like cloth and pins — accepted, rejected, another tag, this time Greek. Blind dates and more blind dates, new clothes, new friends, new feelings. She spilled countless words on paper, writing to anyone, anywhere—waiting for the grayness to pass.

Slowly, awareness. A living part of this communal thought. Too much now to do, to read; they had no time for letters. Suds, flicks, all-nighters—swiftly the fall turns to winter and on to spring. Red cards on black, sand, sun—no gray suspension, only confused, rapid whirling. Finals, farewells — sadly, they turned their feet homeward, a place as foreign now as these walls had been September last.

Three months—the strangeness subsided, yet old ties were not as close; old structures would not fit. He watched the summer seep away, eager to rejoin his stream, to pass again into his own. Bright were his dreams, and high his expectations. Security clutched tightly in wisps of madras cloth, blue-jeaned thighs, or bearded face. Meticulous assemblage of his outer shell, the symbol of belonging, of his world. Worn phrases reiterated by the faceless stream like echoes in a mountain pass. Unsteady, untried, he began again the oft-repeated pattern. Same routine—classes, suds, papers, quizzes—but with it, unbridled will to act pulled and tore him a thousand ways. This year of fresh beginnings, new approaches to past mistakes. Again rapid whirling, but now between his surging energy and the unconfidence of deep-self. No purpose here, only pressure — unbearable, unrelenting pressure—and refuge sought in accepted brands and constant motion. A time of intense spirit, of feeling that the world within the wall is forever and cannot, will not end. Slowly now the winter turned to spring. He longed for May, an end to disillusion, an escape from pressure. Ecstatic, unleashed, he rushed from the dispersing stream to find himself in the peaceful fields of summer experience.

Gentle leaves resting in puddles. Gold, red, September leaves bobbing in the old familiar stream. More staid, less eager—standing and watching—new faces, strange and young; remembered smiles no longer part of the rushing crowd. He had a past, a present, and a future. Three worlds now, instead of one. Old, old pattern too well-known begun again. Awakening of self to self, to change, transience, basic solidity from deep wells within. Third year of the four—a time of decision, preparation, concrete responsibility and respect. No outer symbols of security; no need for clichés and accepted brands. This, the year of the individual, of idealism as high as the ivied towers and as strong as he who built them. Electric stimulation, pricking lectures, wild urge to know for knowing's sake, to swallow every scrap of printed paper, and still to feel how little could be learned. Fields of concentration, major interests—new scope beyond the ageless walls. New depth to old relationships, recharged, the world waited for his ideas. No faceless stream, but stream of faces, individuals—fresh meaning to that word. Joy, feeling intense to the point of hurt; again he wanted to cry, not what he had done, but what he felt. This year so swiftly passed, huge blocks torn away before he had accomplished half of what he'd planned. September merged with May, and the final lap a summer away.

Eager squirrels' feet gathering brown acorns hidden in piles of crisp bright leaves. Warm autumn—the last, in these the college years. Old stream, older now filled with nostalgic memory of past faces and forgotten moods. Threadbare pattern, relieved only by the blue-white clash of uniforms or frantic preparations for the outside world. Pinnacle of this phantom community; above all judging, comparing like the towers of stone. Some ready to leave the wall behind, to find new patterns, unfamiliar faces, hard reality. Others bewildered, apprehensive—no plan, waiting, indecision, futile dreams. And still others, unwilling to leave the protecting shadow of these calm buildings to begin another quest for deeper knowledge of themselves and of their chosen work. He stood and watched the shifting images of four years, the changing stream, his own self-change. More red brick now, not confined to East. It swelled from red clay banks marred by bulldozers and heavy trucks. The laughter of legal students on soft, spring days no longer drifts toward the main quadrangle — empty their steps, gone from the old, old walks. No Myrtle, only Campus where it once had stood. Lines of self-written schedules erased by the coming of automation. Cuts — free at least for this, the last semester. New pools, reflecting wisteria-encrusted arbors; new faces leading this community; new heights of academic glory. Strange, the hushed footsteps of this year; unbearable the crowding memory of past days. Nostalgia, creeping sickness that left no one untouched. Accomplished record, too late to change its contents. Only the future and the past were his; this, the time of transition, readjustment, final touches to set construction of self. Then, the long black line. Dark leather of midnight blue, scripture as a guide for future paths, last advice, last honors, reading of his name, and then the gate. Final glance towards shady arches and tiny window panes. Goodbye, this time forever to the stream — a part of him of which he had been part — to the dreams forsaken or fulfilled. Again bright eyes, fastened on the hills beyond.

Rough stone that will not mourn his passing, remembered only in the hollows of the worn steps. Eternal — buildings, grass, and trees — but lost the essence of his college years — the faces he had known and loved.

*"Still pleased to teach,
and yet not proud to know"*

Duke University
DURHAM
NORTH CAROLINA

Office of the President

Dear Miss Kimbrough:

It is with pleasure that I comply with your request for a statement since it enables me to touch briefly upon the past, the present and the future:

First, to pay tribute to the many who established the high qualities of "old Trinity College" and the great University built around this College during the thirty-six years preceding 1960.

Second, to express to all my deep appreciation for the widespread support and cooperation that have been given to me and to Duke University. Work under such conditions is more pleasant than laborious. It is my desire to emphasize that if, in the judgment of some, we have made progress it has come from the combined efforts of all, working harmoniously with diligence and intelligence for a common objective - a great University of ever improving quality, southern in location, national and international in following and responsibilities, with a growing influence and prestige which already extend around the world.

Third, to mention one development worth far more than the three years of combined, cooperative efforts - the securing of a man of the character, qualifications and attainments of Dr. Douglas M. Knight for fifth President of Duke University. Each of us can take personal pride in this, since all have helped make available the time and establish the conditions necessary for such an accomplishment. Future developments will provide an ample reward.

Fourth, to record my conviction that with continuing enthusiastic and dedicated support of all members of the University family, present and future, Duke University, as a result of its growth in academic excellence, will increase in prestige, will receive appropriate honors, and will move ever forward for greater service. The result will be that the "Golden Age" of Duke will never be in the past or in the present, but always will lie ahead.

Finally, to wish for each of you a long and happy life during which you will work for, be aided by, take pride in, and receive satisfaction and honor from the academic accomplishments of your University.

Sincerely yours,

Deryl Hart

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

MR. BUNYAN SNIPES WOMBLE
Chairman of the Executive Committee of the University

The Board of Trustees confirms faculty appointments, regulates the University's rules and by-laws, and approves the issuance of diplomas and honors. The Trustees also elect the President of the University and are ultimately responsible for the fiscal affairs of Duke. The North Carolina Methodist Church and the Duke University Alumni Association appoint thirty-six members to serve as Trustees for six-year terms. Because the Trustees only meet twice annually in an official capacity, matters of immediate consequence are delegated to the seven-member Executive Committee. This year, the Trustees elected Dr. Douglas M. Knight to succeed the retiring Dr. Hart as President of Duke and held an unprecedented meeting with student leaders.

Chairman of the Board of Trustees, Mr. Bunyan Snipes Womble is serving his third year in office. Mr. Womble has been a member of the Board since the academic year 1915-1916. He was elected to the Executive Committee in 1950. A native of Pittsboro, North Carolina, Mr. Womble graduated from Trinity College and took his law degree there. Mr. Womble is also a member of the Duke Endowment Board of Trustees and has served the University as Chairman of the Advisory Committee to the University Loyalty Fund.

GENERAL ADMINISTRATION

CHARLES E. JORDAN, A.B., LL.D.
Vice President in the Division of Public Relations

Dr. Jordan is associated with the Division of Institutional Advancement, the Department of Alumni Affairs, the Appointments Bureau, and the Bureau of Public Information. Lastly, he is Chairman of the University Athletic Council. As if this were not enough to keep a Duke alumnus occupied, Dr. Jordan also manages to keep active in civic and church affairs, notably the Rotary Club, the North Carolina Symphony Society, and the General Board of Education of the Methodist Church.

In dealing with student affairs, Dean Herring can draw upon a large fund of experience. While at Duke as an undergraduate, Dr. Herring was an outstanding student; he was tapped for membership in Phi Beta Kappa and Who's Who. At the present time, he is serving as a Trustee of Louisville College and as Chairman of the Co-operative Research Committee of the North Carolina College Conference. Dean Herring is also an outdoorsman, spending much of his spare time gardening, fishing, and hunting.

HERBERT J. HERRING, M.A., LL.D.
Vice President in the Division of Student Life

EVERETT H. HOPKINS, M.A., LL.D.
Vice President for Institutional Advancement and Assistant Provost

Dr. Hopkins has been intimately connected with various aspects of higher education for a number of years. Upon completion of his formal academic training at Wittenberg University and the University of Pennsylvania, he was connected with Miami of Ohio, Washington State College, and Washington University in St. Louis. Through the years, he was nominated for special assignments, positions, and committees and was inducted into a host of professional and honor societies.

The financial complex responsible for keeping Duke in the black is headed by Mr. Gerhard C. Hendricksen. Formerly, Mr. Hendricksen was Business Manager and Comptroller. With the retirement of Mr. Brower this summer, he has assumed the positions of Vice-President for Business and Finance and Treasurer of the University. When not directly concerned with trial-balances, tear-sheets, computer tapes and data, Mr. Hendricksen serves on the Executive Committee of the Research Triangle Foundation.

G. C. HENDRICKSEN, M.A., C.P.A.
Vice President for Business and Finance, Treasurer of the University

Before his promotion in 1961, Mr. Harward was Assistant Comptroller and Internal Auditor of the University. After graduating from Duke in 1946, he practiced for ten years in the Raleigh-Durham area as a Certified Public Accountant. Mr. Harward is a World War II Air Force veteran and a member of the Tobaccoland Kiwanis Club. He is currently serving as Treasurer of the local Kiwanian group. On the undergraduate level, Mr. Harward sits in on meetings of the Publications Board, advising that body on financial matters.

STEPHEN C. HARWARD, A.B., C.P.A.
Comptroller and Internal Auditor

GENERAL

Mr. Dozier has held the offices of Associate Secretary of the University, Executive Secretary of the University Scholarship Committee, Assistant to the Vice-President in the Division of Public Relations, and, since 1958, Secretary of the University and Assistant Business Manager.

A Duke alumnus, Mr. Dozier is active in civic and religious affairs. He is Chairman of the Board of Pensions of the North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Church, an Associate Lay Leader in the Durham District, and Vice-President of the Methodist Fund, Inc. He is also a member of the Durham County Board of Education, the Board of Directors of the Research Triangle Park, Inc., and the Board of Directors of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company.

JOHN M. DOZIER, A.B.
Business Manager

This past fall, the Board of Trustees elected Dr. Goodwin to succeed Richard L. Predmore as Secretary of the University. The appointment, while recognizing Dr. Goodwin's abilities, also enabled his predecessor to assume the full-time job of Dean of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences. Dr. Goodwin received his Ph.D. at Duke and went on to further graduate study at Assumption University, Ontario. His field of concentration, economics, has carried him far afield: to the Australian National University as an Honorary Research Fellow and to York University, Toronto, as a guest lecturer.

CRAWFORD GOODWIN, Ph.D.
Secretary of the University

University Registrar

ADMINISTRATION

A native Tarheel, Dr. Hobbs received both his undergraduate and graduate degrees at Duke. He joined the Chemistry Department in 1935 and was appointed to the departmental chair in 1951. Having gained valuable administrative experience as a department head and as a supervisor of wartime research programs, Dr. Hobbs was promoted to Dean of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences and, ultimately, to Dean of the University. He assumed the duties of Assistant Provost in 1960. Dean Hobbs is currently serving as chairman of the Board of Governors and Executive Committee of the Research Triangle Institute.

MARCUS E. HOBBS, Ph.D.
Vice Provost and Dean of the University

ROBERT T. COLE, Ph.D.
Provost of the University

Dr. Richard Tuthill, the freshman advisor for the Woman's College General Motors National Scholarship Committee is plagued by young women. His office is frequented by co-eds seeking information and counsel concerning these grants. Although devoted to this attractive position, Dr. Tuthill's workaday duties are those of University Registrar and Professor of Economics. In connection with his courses, Dr. Tuthill is currently investigating problems dealing with the resources of the Soviet Union and the emerging nations of Africa. Before coming to Duke, Dr. Tuthill taught at the University of Kentucky and was, later, Assistant Director of Research for Pan American World Airways.

According to Article XII of the University Bylaws, the Provost is "... responsible for all educational affairs and activities, including research and the University Hospital, and for all aspects of student activity and welfare." In conjunction with his administrative duties, Dr. Cole is James B. Duke Professor of Political Science. His academic and professional credentials are indeed impressive; he graduated Phi Beta Kappa, studied abroad under a Guggenheim Fellowship, and is a past president of the American Political Science Association. At present, Dr. Cole is editor of the American Political Science Review.

ROBERT B. COX, M.A.
Dean of Undergraduate Men

It is incumbent upon the Dean of Trinity College that he supervise the academic programs of all undergraduate men, with the exception of engineering students. Dean Manchester is also Professor of History; one of the courses he teaches is the "History of European Expansion Overseas (1415-1898)." Beyond the groves of academe, Dr. Manchester is the American representative to the Inter-American Cultural Council of the Organization of American States and a member of the United States National Commission for UNESCO.

HOWARD A. STROBEL, Ph.D.
Assistant Dean of Trinity College

Exclusive of academic matters, all undergraduate men are responsible to the Office of the Dean of Undergraduate Men. But if Dean Cox is usually occupied with problems relating to campus life—organizations, fraternities, etc.—it is not irregular for students to bring their personal and academic problems to him. Dean Cox received his A.B. at the University of Tennessee and his M.A. at Peabody Institute. He did additional graduate work at the University of North Carolina and at Duke. Mr. Cox came to Duke at the invitation of Dr. White of the English Department.

ALAN K. MANCHESTER, Ph.D.
Dean of Trinity College

Assistant Dean of Trinity College, Dr. Strobel attended the State University of Washington. He then traveled cross-country to do his graduate work at Brown University in Providence, Rhode Island. During the war, he was associated with the top-secret Manhattan Project, the scientific team which was instrumental in developing the atomic bomb. An Associate Professor of Chemistry, Dr. Strobel's textbook, Chemical Analysis: A Systematic Approach to Instrumental Analysis, was published in 1960. Dean Strobel is also Secretary of the Undergraduate Faculty Council, the group of immortals responsible for voluntary class attendance.

COLLEGE

Having graduated from Duke with academic honors, Dr. Johnson taught in the Durham schools and at Randolph-Macon College. After four years on the staff of the Duke Summer Session, he was appointed to his present position, Assistant Dean of Trinity College. Dean Johnson's interests lie with upperclassmen. Juniors and seniors, in particular, may consult him, formally or informally, for help in solving their problems—academic or otherwise. Concurrently, Dr. Johnson is an associate professor in the Department of Education.

CHARLES B. JOHNSON, E.D.

BARNEY L. JONES, B.D., Ph.D.
Assistant Dean of Trinity College

Freshman Week may be a time of uncertainty and bewilderment. The program administered by Dean Jones reduces confusion and helps freshmen to become quickly and painlessly oriented to life at Duke. Communication between Room 104 Allen and the first-year class is maintained throughout the year—in freshman assemblies, personal conferences, etc. Dean Jones graduated from Duke Magna Cum Laude and attended the Yale Divinity and Graduate Schools; he received his Ph.D. at Duke.

C. H. WOMBLE, Ph.D.
Assistant Dean of Undergraduate Men

Dean Womble attended Davidson College for two years, but graduated from Johns Hopkins University in 1954. He also received his M.A. and Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins and served there as a graduate instructor, until he came to Duke in 1958. A classicist and a linguist, Dean Womble is a member of the American Philological Association and a past president of the North Carolina Classical Association.

Walter J. Seeley, Dean of the College of Engineering, will retire this summer after thirty-five years of service to the University. His career began at the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, where he received the Bachelor of Science degree in Electrical Engineering. Later, he attended the University of Pennsylvania and was awarded the M.S. degree in Physics. During his many years of teaching, Dean Seeley was also a consultant to business concerns, to various research projects, and to municipal governments. Through the years, he has also managed to keep abreast of developments in stereoscopic photography and studies in lightning.

WALTER J. SEELEY, E.E., M.S.
Dean of the College of Engineering

SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING

EVERETT B. WEATHERSPOON, A.B.
Director of Admissions

Ask any undergraduate. The business of selecting the right college and then gaining admission to that institution is a trying affair, calling for patience, honesty, and objectivity. Everett B. Weatherspoon, a member of the Class of 1930 and a past President of the North Carolina Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers, serves as Director of Admissions for Trinity College and the College of Engineering. His time is largely taken up with committee meetings, personal interviews, and the inevitable difficult decision—"yes" or "no." The caliber of the present student body is a credit to the Admissions Office and its policies.

EARL I. BROWN, II, Ph.D.
Chairman of the Department of Civil Engineering

Professor Macduff graduated from Webb Institute with a B.S. in Naval Architecture and Marine Engineering and then obtained an M.A. degree in Mechanical Engineering at New York University. Mr. Macduff was, successively, on the faculties of the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute and R.P.I. At Duke Professor Macduff is now conducting research in the technical areas of vibration and shock.

JOHN N. MACDUFF, M.M.E.
Chairman of the Department of Mechanical Engineering

Dr. Earl Brown has been cited for his outstanding contributions to the field of concrete design in American Men of Science and Who's Who in Engineering. His early studies in civil engineering were conducted at V.M.I., the University of Texas, and neighboring North Carolina State College. Before joining the Duke faculty, Dr. Brown was Professor of Civil Engineering and Assistant Dean of the School of Engineering at Auburn.

CHARLES R. VAIL, M.S.E.E., Ph.D.
Chairman of the Department of Electrical Engineering

Dr. Vail holds three degrees in his field and teaches both graduate and undergraduate courses in the department. At the present time, Dr. Vail is also connected with a research project on superconducting circuitry. Outside the milieu of laboratory apparatus, Dr. Vail is a Fellow of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and a member of the Governor's Scientific Advisory Committee. He also sits on the University Academic Council and is the current President of the local Phi Beta Kappa chapter.

ELLEN HARRIS HUCKABEE, M.A.
Acting Dean of The Woman's College

WOMAN'S COLLEGE

Prospective students often find the title "Director of Admissions" ominous and a bit frightening. Mrs. Persons, however, is concerned with making the interview, the individual's first collegiate experience, as painless and profitable as possible. She meets new students once again when she officially welcomes incoming women during Orientation Week. Mrs. Persons's experience at Duke—as an undergraduate, a graduate student, and a counsellor—have given her a valuable perspective to aid in the selection of new students.

With the retirement of Miss Brinkley after many years of service, a void was created in the administration of the Woman's College. The need was not only for someone to fill the Dean's chair, but also for a personable and inspiring woman. In the interim, Miss Ellen Huckabee has ably discharged the office of Acting Dean of the Woman's College. Born in Albemarle, N. C., and a Duke alumna, Miss Huckabee had been the Dean of Undergraduate Instruction in the Woman's College for the past ten years. Aside from her administrative duties, she is a member of the Long-Range Planning Committee and the Board of Governors of the Faculty Club.

ELIZABETH ANDERSON PERSONS, M.A.
Director of Admissions, Woman's College

MARY GRACE WILSON, M.A.
Dean of Undergraduate Women

With the A.B. degree from Winthrop College and an M.A. from Columbia University, Miss Wilson came to Duke as a house counselor. She then became Dean of Residents and, ultimately, Dean of Undergraduate Women. Miss Wilson works with house counselors and other associates sharing the responsibility for the non-academic matters of student life. Her duties range from co-ordinating official and W.S.G.A. activities to supervising the social program and advising student organizations.

Previous to her appointment to the Duke faculty, Miss Philpott was an instructor in the biological sciences at the University of Chicago. Now an Associate Professor of Botany, her academic duties involve courses in the structure of vascular plants and research in plant ecology. Her position as Supervisor of Freshman Studies in Botany was, perhaps, a factor in Miss Philpott's selection as Acting Associate Dean of Undergraduate Instruction.

JANE PHILPOTT, Ph.D.
Acting Associate Dean of Undergraduate Instruction

LILLIAN ARMFIELD LEE, M.S.Ed.
Assistant Dean of Undergraduate Women

Miss Lee first came to Duke as an undergraduate; later, after receiving her M.A. at Indiana University, she returned to serve as Pegram's House Counselor. She, therefore, approached the position of Assistant Dean of Undergraduate Women with an intimate knowledge of the University and the difficulties encountered by co-eds. Her duties include meeting with the treasurers of East Campus organizations, discussing immediate co-ed employment opportunities, serving on the Angier B. Duke Scholarship Committee, and acting as adviser to the Foreign Student Committee.

Miss Jenkins combines administrative work and teaching. As a classroom lecturer, Miss Jenkins teaches courses in the history of art. Her special interest is portraiture, and she has written on this area of artwork. Miss Jenkins obtained an M.A. at Radcliffe and a Ph.D. at Bryn Mawr College. As a Dean, Dr. Jenkins is concerned with the academic affairs of juniors, seniors and transfer students.

MARIANNA DUNCAN JENKINS, Ph.D.
Associate Dean of Undergraduate Instruction

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL CHARLES H. DUNCAN, B.A.
Department of Air Science

A former Air Force jet pilot, Colonel Duncan has received three of the service's highest decorations: the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal with twelve oak leaf clusters, and the Air Force Commendation Medal. Colonel Duncan conducts classes in the various phases of navigation as well as pre-commission briefings for AFOTC students. Among the Colonel's outside interests are an occasional tour of the University Golf Course and odd-hours in his home workshop.

EARL G. MUELLER, Ph.D.
Department of Art

Dr. Mueller shares his office, "under the stairs in Asbury," with his wife, who is an Associate Professor in the Department of Music. Dr. Mueller conducts classes in art history and in studio art and printmaking. Curiously, he received a Bachelor of Music degree from the noted Eastman School of Music at the University of Rochester. He went on to do graduate work at the State University of Iowa, earning an M.F.A. in studio art and a Ph.D. in art history.

DEPARTMENT HEADS

A native of Holland, Michigan, Dr. Oosting has made his home in Durham since 1931, when he came to Duke as an instructor. He became a full professor in 1948; in 1954, he was named Chairman of the Botany Department. His research has carried him "far afield" to the study of forest ecology, the development of vegetation on bare rocks, the ecology of maritime vegetation in the Southeastern United States, and North Carolina vegetation.

HENRY J. OOSTING, Ph.D.
Department of Botany

Dr. Saylor received his A.B. at Southern Methodist University and did his graduate work at Duke. After a year of teaching high-school chemistry in Fredericktown, Missouri, he joined the Chemistry Department here in 1927. A member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Phi Lambda Upsilon, and Sigma Xi, Dr. Saylor has had several works published in the general fields of physical and analytical chemistry.

JOHN H. SAYLOR, Ph.D.
Department of Chemistry

ROBERT S. ROGERS, F.A.A.R., Ph.D.
Department of Classical Studies

Dr. Rogers has become a specialist in the affairs of the early Roman Empire, particularly the conception and development of Roman law. His main contributions to this study are the books, Caesaris Augusti Res Gestae et Fragmenta and Studies in the Reign of Tiberius, and an article, "Criminal Trials and Criminal Legislation Under Tiberius." Dr. Rogers holds degrees from the University of Pennsylvania, Princeton, and Columbia.

Dr. Cartwright is devoted to the subtle relationships between Duke, the teaching profession, and secondary and higher education. He is currently working with former Harvard president, Dr. James B. Conant, on a "Study of the Education of American Teachers, 1961-1963." Dr. Cartwright's career began at the University of Minnesota. In 1959, his alma mater awarded him its Outstanding Achievement Award.

WILLIAM H. CARTWRIGHT, Ph.D.
Department of Education

FRANK T. DE VYVER, Ph.D.
Department of Economics

There is a growing trend in the ranks of officialdom for top administrators to hold more than one important post. The tendency is especially true in business and in education. Dr. Frank de Vyver is one of those able men who manages to combine commercial activities with those of the classroom. Currently, he is Chairman of the Department of Economics and Business Administration and Vice-Provost of the University. He is a vice-president of Erwin Mills in Durham, in charge of labor relations.

DEPARTMENT HEADS

Dr. Turner joined the Duke faculty in 1953, and was appointed chairman of the English Department in 1958. He is active in professional circles and widely respected for his critical contributions to American literature, notably the literature of the South. Perhaps his best-known work is George W. Cable: A Biography, which was adjudged the best book in Southern history for 1956-1957 by the Southern Historical Association and received the Association's Sydnor Prize.

EDWARD W. BERRY, Ph.D.
Department of Geology

A biography of Dr. Berry may be found in either American Men of Science or Who's Who in America. He has participated in numerous geological surveys and is a fellow of the Geological Society of America and the Geological Society of London. During the academic year 1961-1962, Dr. Berry was a visiting professor at the University of Malaya. On the literary side, Professor Berry has written extensively for technical journals and serves as editor of The South-Eastern Geologist.

HERMAN SALINGER, Ph.D.
Department of German

Sometime poet and full-time professor of German, Dr. Salinger is a busy man. He—and a distinguished group of fans—are eagerly awaiting the publication of a second volume of "Herr Professor's" verse, A Sigh is the Sword. Poet Salinger's first book of rhymes bore the intriguing title Angel of Our Thirst. In February, Dr. Salinger, his wife, and two of their three daughters left on a tour of Germany, Austria, France, and Italy.

East Campus Department of Health and Physical Education

Department of History

A Yankee and a Yale graduate, Dr. Watson is particularly interested in the drift of American history in the twentieth century. The courses he teaches are largely devoted to an examination of critical contemporary events and the interpretations which historians have imposed upon these happenings. Dr. Watson received the R.D.W. Connor Award, given to the author of the best article to appear in The North Carolina Historical Review for 1960-1961.

JOHN J. GERGEN, Ph.D.
Department of Mathematics

It is commonplace that technology and the wicked world of IBM have permeated the fabric of American society and culture. The inroads made by the new methodologies have served to widen the province of mathematics. Dr. Gergen, the departmental chairman, oversees the mathematics curriculum. He attended the University of Minnesota and received his doctorate at Rice.

His current areas of research are work and retirement, the professionalization process in nursing, and constructive typology and social research; these studies are being conducted under the auspices of the Ford Foundation, the National Institute of Health, and the University Research Council.

JOHN C. MCKINNEY, Ph.D.
Department of Sociology

The Chairman of the Department of Romance Languages, Dr. Gifford Davis, is listed in the current Who's Who in America. A graduate of Bowdoin College—the alma mater of Longfellow and Hawthorne—Dr. Davis received the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Harvard. Among his special contributions to the field, Dr. Davis has written numerous articles on the nineteenth-century Spanish novel and the “medieval spirit” of Spanish literature. Dr. Davis is also a past president of the North Carolina Association of Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese. Away from the classroom, Dr. Davis enjoys mountain-climbing, swimming, and photography.

GIFFORD DAVIS, Ph.D.
Department of Romance Languages

Dr. Jezierski graduated from Harvard in 1942 with an A.B. and also received his graduate degrees there. He has taught at Harvard, Boston University, and Tufts and worked for the National Security Agency in Washington. Dr. Jezierski has devoted himself to building a Russian library at Duke, increasing its size from 1,000 to 10,000 volumes. To this end, he visited the Soviet Union in 1959, where he obtained references for books in the Duke library and photostats for use on his return.

Mrs. Jezierski is also a linguist, with an M.A. in Russian Studies from Radcliffe College. The Jezierskis plan to teach their children Russian—after they get their German down. The family summers in New England—near Harvard and the seashore.

GRADUATE AND

The Duke Medical School is currently engaged in maintaining and enhancing its position of leadership. Directed by Dean Barnes Woodhall, the present program of expansion has been given the space-age name "Phase Two." Plans call for increasing the number of medical students in each class from 84 to 128, the addition of two hospital units of 400 beds each, and the construction of two additional basic research centers. Educated at Williams and Johns Hopkins, Dr. Woodhall succeeded the retiring Dr. Davison in 1960.

BARNES WOODHALL, M.D.
Dean of the School of Medicine

RICHARD L. PREDMORE, D.M.L.
Dean of the Graduate School of Arts and Science

Away from his desk, Dr. Predmore enjoys hiking, traveling, and an occasional set of tennis. On the job, he divides his time between teaching courses in Spanish literature and supervising the work of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences. Dr. Predmore's background in educational administration includes a year as a Fellow of the Rockefeller Foundation and three years as the Chairman of the Department of Romance Languages at Rutgers University.

ROBERT F. CUSHMAN, B.D., Ph.D.
Dean of the Divinity School

The son of a noted clergyman, Dr. Cushman received the A.B. degree from Wesleyan University, Middletown, Connecticut, and the B.D. and Ph.D. degrees at Yale. Before coming to Duke, Dean Cushman served as a pastor, an Instructor in Theology at Yale, and as Professor of Religion at the University of Oregon. He joined the Duke faculty in 1945, as Professor of Systematic Religion in the Divinity School; he was appointed Dean of the Divinity School in 1958.

PROFESSIONAL SCHOOLS

Last March 26-27, Chief Justice Earl Warren formally dedicated the new Law School Building. The expansive facilities, built at a cost of over $2,000,000, are a concrete achievement; Dean Latty has also supervised the Law School admissions program, which has seen the caliber of entering classes increase until Duke now ranks third in the nation as to the average I.S.A.T.-score of first-year students.

ELVIN REMIUS LATTY, J.D., J.Sc.D.
Dean of the School of Law

Dean Latty was educated at Bowdoin College, the University of Michigan, and Columbia. Admitted to the New York bar in 1930, he was associated with the firm of Sullivan and Cromwell for three years. Re-entering legal education, Dr. Latty has lectured at the University of Kansas, Missouri, George Washington, Stanford, North Carolina, Texas, and Pavia, Italy. He has also served with the State Department and written two books: Subsidiaries and Affiliated Corporations and an Introduction to Business Associations.

ANN M. JACOBANSKY, R.N., M.Ed.
Dean of the School of Nursing

From 1943 until 1945, Miss Jacobansky served in the Army Nurse Corps. Following her retirement from the service, she was actively engaged in nursing practice until 1949. At that time, she decided to enter the field of nursing education and received a Masters degree in Education from the University of Pittsburgh. A devotion to professional ideals is still manifested in her promotion of programs providing for the best possible schooling in nursing.

ELLWOOD SCOTT HARRAR, Sc.D., Ph.D.
Dean of the School of Forestry

A veteran of thirty-five years of teaching and administrative experience, Dr. Harrar attended Oberlin College and the New York State College of Forestry and then joined the faculties of the University of Washington, the New York State College of Forestry, and Duke. He has written books on the Douglas Fir, the technology of paper-making fibers, guides to Southern trees, and seventy-two new or revised articles on timber trees in the World Encyclopaedia Britannica.

IAIN HAMILTON, B.M., F.R.A.M.
Visiting Mary Duke Biddle Professor of Music

Scotch-born Iain Hamilton originally planned to make his way in engineering and actually made a career of it for seven years. In 1947, however, he entered the Royal Academy of Music on a scholarship grant. In 1951, he received the Dove Prize, the Academy's highest award. He later received the Royal Philharmonic Society's Prize and a Koussevitzky Foundation Award.

Currently lecturing as the Mary Duke Biddle Professor of Music, Mr. Hamilton has composed in almost every musical genre. Also, he now has a book on contemporary music at press and has launched into a study of Beethoven.

Mr. Hamilton's reception has been more than favorable. A series of lectures and concerts, "Five Evenings With Iain Hamilton" has been well-attended and has won plaudits.

CAMPUS PERSONALITIES

THOMAS A. LANGFORD, B.D., Ph.D.
Assistant Professor of Religion

Dr. Larson's entire life has been concerned with law from the very beginning as the son of a judge to his position now as Director of the World Rule of Law Center of Duke's Law School. He attended Agustana College, the University of South Dakota Law School, and Oxford, as a Rhodes Scholar. Dr. Larson has received many honors including honorary Doctor of Laws and Doctor of Humanities degrees; World Peace Award, American Freedom Association; Fulbright Advanced Research Award; Honorary Fellow of Pembroke College, Oxford; and membership in Phi Beta Kappa. Many different positions—professorships, lawyer, price executive, dean, and Special Consultant to the President—have made up this celebrated man's career.

Anyone connected with education must have, at one time, asked himself, "What makes a good teacher?" Part of the answer may lie in a "confession" by Dr. Langford, Professor of Religion and Director of Introductory Studies in Religion, on the gratifying aspects of being, in some sense, an educator.

Dr. Langford's enthusiasm is contagious, as his students and those who were privileged to hear him during the "Last Lecture" series two years ago will testify. A graduate of Davidson and Duke, Dr. Langford has also participated in the programs of the Symposium Committee.

ARTHUR LARSON, D.C.L.
Professor of Law

THOMAS H. CORDLE, Ph.D.
Associate Professor of Romance Languages

Mr. Dickens received his B.S. and M.S. degrees in Accounting from the University of North Carolina. He came to Duke in 1949 and has been elected to Who's Who in American Education because of his outstanding teaching record. Mr. Dickens has done much to boost the reputation of the Accounting Department at Duke. He is now spearheading a committee to investigate and plan a graduate school of Business Administration here. Mr. Dickens' interests are not limited to accounting. He is Assistant Dean of the University and a member of the Student-Faculty-Administration Council. In this capacity, he has worked untiringly to promote student responsibility and freedom.

ROBERT L. DICKENS, M.S., C.P.A.
Professor of Accounting

Dr. Cordle has achieved campus-wide popularity as a participant in the Student Union "Last Lecture Series." This past year, Dr. Cordle served on the committee which brought noted women from all fields to the University for a symposium, "Crosscurrents in Contemporary Life."

A graduate of the University of Virginia and Yale, Dr. Cordle conducts French classes on all levels. Spirited classroom debate characterizes each session and, while his students argue, Dr. Cordle leans back in his chair, smooths his sandy hair, and lights a super-filtered cigarette. He modulates the discussion in a gentle, indirect way, preferring to let students think the issue through for themselves, rather than lecturing dogmatically.

The bearded gentleman pictured here has been a familiar figure on campus for the past six years. Mr. Jeremy North, who calls himself "The Bookseller," has set up his Gothic Bookshop in a cubby-hole adjacent to Page Auditorium. A product of a venerable English public school, Mr. North won a scholarship to Cambridge. At the same time, however, he inherited a "tidy sum of money"; he forthwith pocketed these funds and ran off to see the world. By 1944, he had been, successively, a scaman, an editor, a foreign correspondent, and a decorated veteran of the Second World War. After retiring from the service, he moved his family and fourteen tons of books to New England where he established the most remotely situated bookshop in the State. In 1956, he tired of the "ivy-tower existence" and took off for a warmer climate and the Gothic confines of Duke.

JEREMY NORTH

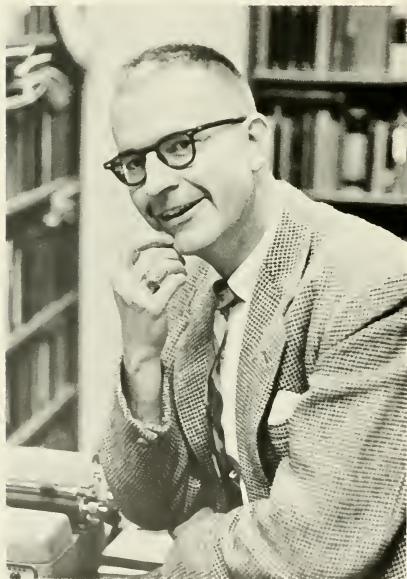

Last fall, Dr. Waldo Beach was one of three alumni honored by Wesleyan University at Middletown, Connecticut. The citation, for distinguished service as a teacher and scholar, gives some indication of Dr. Beach's contributions to education. "The breadth and depth of creativity in the scholarship is illustrated by your book, Conscience on Campus, and your numerous contributions to other publications . . . and your work with such organizations as the Council on Graduate Studies in Religion, Society of Religion in Higher Education, and the Board of Trustees of Wesleyan. . . . Yours is a record of distinguished achievement and devoted service which Wesleyan is proud to honor."

Dr. Grover Smith, a genial crew-cut figure, defies classification. He is, pure and simple, an individual. His is a unique and beguiling character. His courses in twentieth-century English fiction, on both the graduate and undergraduate levels, are fascinating sessions, infused with the knowledge and wit—the stock in trade—of this instructor.

A formal biography of Dr. Smith reveals that he attended Columbia University, receiving the A.B., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees there. Before coming to Duke, he taught at Rutgers and at Yale. Recently, he has been a Fellow of the John Simon Guggenheim Foundation and the recipient of the Poetry Society of America's Chap-book Award. He has written extensively on T. S. Eliot and done critical pieces on Faulkner, Yeats, and Joyce.

GROVER C. SMITH, Ph.D.
Associate Professor of English

WILLIAM W. BEACH, B.D., Ph.D.
Professor of Christian Ethics

A likely first impression of Gerald Wilson is that of a youngish, stocky figure, wearing horn-rimmed glasses and chatting with a group of undergraduates. Explicitly, he is Assistant to the Dean of Men and is responsible for the freshman housemastering program, an advisor at-large to the freshman class, and, with Dean Womble, advisor to the "experimental" dorms. Gerald Wilson is currently working on his doctoral degree; as Dr. Wilson, he plans to enter college teaching. He makes no bones about the fact that he likes people and enjoys working with them. Perhaps this confession accounts for both his present position and his future plans.

GERALD WILSON, B.A.
Assistant to the Dean of Men

WARREN LERNER, Ph.D.
Assistant Professor of History

A large, heavy-set man, Dr. Warren Lerner presents at times an impassive and inscrutable face. But even in a brief conversation with him, the listener is aware of a provocative knowledge and command of the techniques of scholarship. And when he breaks out in a grinning smile, one may sense the personal and very human qualities which distinguish this popular instructor. Dr. Lerner did his undergraduate work at Boston University and followed up his studies at the Graduate School of Columbia University. After receiving his doctorate, he was named a Ford Foundation Fellow and then taught at Roosevelt University in Chicago. Dr. Lerner's specialty is the history of the Soviet regime, particularly since 1917. Within this fairly narrow field, he specializes in the history of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and the Communist International.

James B. Duke Professor of Preaching and Dean of the Chapel, Dr. Cleland describes himself as a man who "collects stories and people and smokes Revelation in his pipe." Dean Cleland has been awarded the M.A., B.D., S.T.M., and Th.D. degrees. He also holds an Honorary D.D. from Davidson College and Glasgow University. His interest in people is reflected in the fact that he is a consultant in worship to the Chiefs of Chaplains of the three Armed Services.

While enrolled at Duke, "Bill" Griffith states that he participated in "a few" extra-curriculars. The record shows that he was elected to Omicron Delta Kappa, Phi Eta Sigma, and the Red Friars. He was first a member, then President of the I.F.C., Captain of the cross-country team, etc., etc.

The lapse of years has had little effect on Bill Griffith's energy and enthusiasm. As Director of the Student Union, he has been a "mainspring" — largely responsible for SU's achieving its present status. Members of other campus organizations also find Mr. Griffith's office a friendly place, where suggestions and helpful advice are readily available.

The House Counselors form an integral part of college life on East Campus. Although they do not have jurisdictional power, they are advisor and friend to each girl in their respective houses, and they are ready to assist in any way should an emergency occur. They also represent the University in an official capacity after East Duke office hours.

LIBRARIES

Currently, the "consolidated" Duke library ranks fifteenth in the nation in overall size. The general and special libraries house a collection of 1,540,000 volumes, over 3,000,000 manuscripts, and extensive files of maps, musical scores, and reels of microfilm. This past year, additional material was acquired for the library's distinguished collection of Civil War manuscripts, the third largest such collection in the United States.

But the growth rate of the Duke libraries has been frustrated by a lack of space. The present buildings are insufficient for the needs of students and staff members. This critical problem has, however, not been overlooked; plans call for a new unit to be added to the West Campus Library, with five times the present space. The exterior of the new building will be in the traditional Gothic style; the interior will resemble the new Law School library, with the accent on convenience and informality. Congestion which now greets students in the various reading rooms will be alleviated: individual study and typing space will be available, set in a comfortable atmosphere conducive to study.

Dr. Benjamin E. Powell, University Librarian, is steering the library through its period of transition and readjustment. A Duke alumnus, Dr. Powell heads a staff of 115. He is also a past president of the Association of College and Reference Librarians and of the American Library Association.

SCHOLARSHIP AND ALLOCATION

BENJAMIN L. THOMPSON, M.A.
Executive Secretary, University Scholarship Committee

ROBERT L. THOMPSON

Mr. Robert L. Thompson is the director of all financial aid provided undergraduates by the University, as well as industry scholarship programs in which Duke participates. Mr. Thompson received his A.B. from Florence State College, Florence, Alabama, and his M.A. from Duke. Professionally, he is a member of the College Scholarship Service Committee of the College Entrance Examination Board and a charter member of the Southern Association of Financial Aid Administrators. Before coming to Duke, Mr. Thompson was consulting navigator to Captain Charles F. Blair, first man to fly over the North Pole, a part-time instructor in celestial navigation at George Washington University, and a counselor at George Washington High School, Danville, Virginia.

Mr. Thompson's associate, Mr. Charles M. Smith, is enrolled in the Duke Divinity School and has been with the financial aid office since his freshman year in the University.

APPOINTMENTS OFFICE

In 1940, a commercial placement office and a teacher placement service combined operations under the signboard "Appointments Office." Twenty-one firms sent personnel managers calling that first year. In 1962-1963, between five and six hundred prospective employers visited the campus. Situated in Flowers, the Appointments Office is now a modern placement service for Duke students and alumni, arranging meetings between seniors and graduates and representatives from business and industry. The Office also provides a summer-job placement service for undergraduates.

Miss Fannie Mitchell, recognized as one of the outstanding women in her field, joined the Appointments Office in its infancy; she became its Director in 1949. Miss Mitchell has served with distinction as President of both the Southern College Placement Officers Association and the National Association of School and College Placement. The first loyalty of Miss Mitchell and her staff is to the student. A respect and concern for the interests of the various schools and companies is, however, carefully maintained.

Mrs. Eugene Smith, Assistant to the Director; Miss Fannie Y. Mitchell, Director.

ALUMNI

CHARLES A. DUKES, A.B.
Director of Alumni Affairs

MR. CHARLES A. DUKES

Mr. Dukes, by virtue of his office, is concerned with the relationship between Duke alumni and the University. Himself a Duke "alum," Mr. Dukes has made his career in West Durham, serving as Advertising Manager and Alumni Registrar before moving up to his present position. A graduate of the last class from the Woman's College Campus, when all of the University was situated there, Mr. Dukes has seen the entire campus grow and mature gracefully. Mr. Dukes is a past president of the Durham Kiwanis Club and a past director of the American Alumni Council.

SPORTS

“... not that you won or lost—but how you played the game”

Duke cheering section moves West . . .

OUR SPIRIT

Even though Duke's outstanding seasons in football and basketball naturally attracted a large attendance, the spirit of the University was above any parallel measurement. Active participation in the card section and Friday night Pep Rallies highlighted the home football games, and the new "voluntary attendance" system enabled many enthusiastic fans to follow their team to Maryland and Kentucky for NCAA semi-finals. At every game one looked forward to Art Heyman's usual performance, and the addition of the Pep Band spirited the occasion. In retrospect, this year proved that Duke has both outstanding athletes and spectators.

PEP BOARD

Jack Rollert, Barbara Auzat, Chairmen

The Pep Board generates the flurry of activity that accompanies each Blue Devil campaign. During the past year, the Board adorned both campuses with spirited posters, organized pep rallies and cheering sections, marshalled forces for bridge-painting brigades, and sent telegrams to teams on the road.

Becky Auzat, East Campus Chairman, and Jack Rollert, West Campus Chairman, headed the Board's Executive Council this year. The remainder of the governing body is composed of an M.S.G.A. representative, an N.S.G.A. representative, a secretary-treasurer, and the various committee chairmen. Each freshman house on West also elects a delegate, and freshmen on East elect one representative from each dorm.

CHEERLEADERS

Under the enthusiastic direction of Head Cheerleader Ubi Freitas, the squad urged Duke teams to moments of greatness and victory. The five co-cds and five men who make up the squad, led rabid Duke supporters at games, pep rallies, and bonfires—weather permitting. The hyperactive Blue Devil also contributed to the fun and excitement. A Selection Board interviews some seventy hoarse co-ed contestants, before deciding on ten finalists. Five girls are finally elected in a WSGA assembly. The male cheerleaders are selected by a similar process.

Row 1: Kitty Smith, Margie O'Neill, B. J. Albers, Connie Finrock, Chris White, Ubi Freitas. Row 2: Ray Misner, Stu Rutkin, Tim Thurman, Sonny Morgan, Jon Nilsson.

FOOTBALL COACHES

Bill Murray celebrated his twelfth year as Head Coach by leading the Blue Devils to their third straight Atlantic Coast Conference Championship. His over-all record for twelve seasons is 78-38-7. Coach Murray is currently Chairman of the NCAA Coaches' Association Committee on Ethics, President of the Coaches' Association, and a member of the Board of Directors of the Football Hall of Fame. Offensive backfield coach "Ace" Parker was a Duke star in the 1930's; in his last season, 1936, he was named to every major All-American team. Carmen Falcone, defensive backfield coach, was at one time the freshman mentor. He is now head wrestling coach. Herschel Caldwell, defensive end coach, played his collegiate ball at Alabama and has been at Duke since 1940. Marty Pierson, offensive end coach, played under Murray at Delaware. He holds a Masters degree in civil engineering. Defensive line coach Doug Knotts also played football under Murray—at Duke. Offensive line coach Ted Youngling played at Cornell, Dartmouth, and Delaware; he also studied under Bud Wilkinson. Freshman coach Bob Cox scored 11 touchdowns, when he played for Duke in 1933. The coaching "brain-trust" is largely responsible for Duke success on the gridiron. They are assisted by outstanding personnel "behind the scenes" and, of course, by Mr. E. M. "Eddie" Cameron, Director of Athletics.

DUKE VS. SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

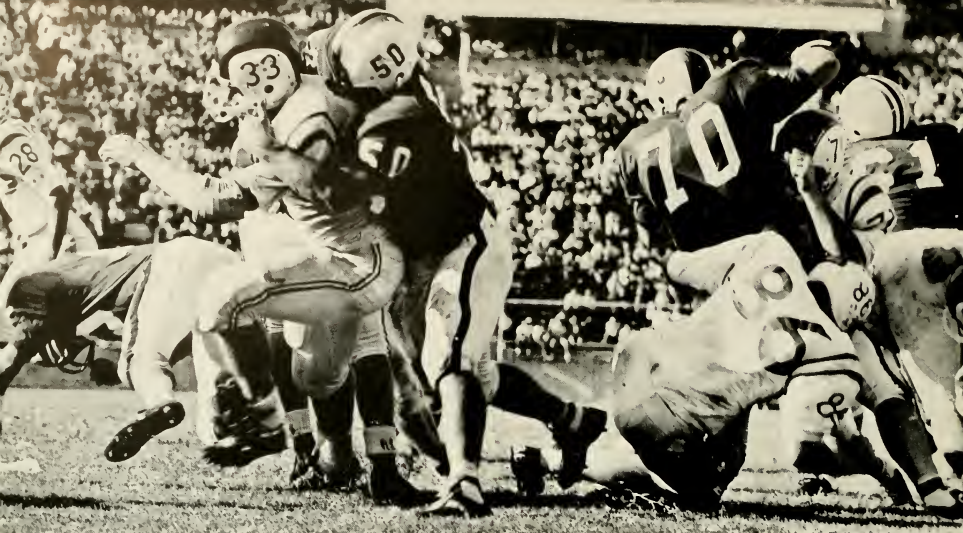

Five interceptions helped Southern Cal to a 17-7 win before a national TV audience. The Dukes drew first blood early in the game on a 25-yard scoring pass from Gil Garner to Jay Wilkinson. After the Duke touchdown, the Trojans bounced back to tie the game in the second period. The tragedy of stolen passes began with the Trojan's first interception late in the first half. The opportunistic Californians turned the Duke miscue into a second touchdown, which proved to be the winning margin.

Dick Havens and Pete Widener force a Trojan runner out of bounds.

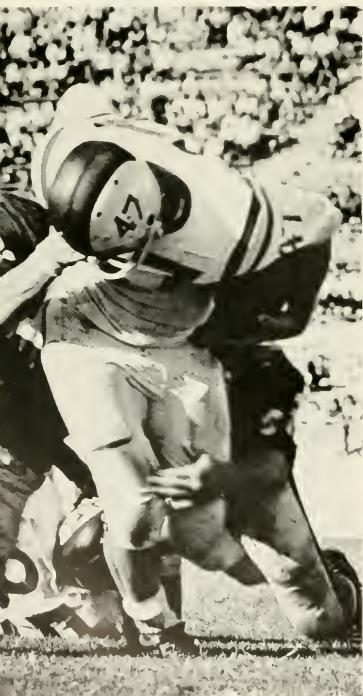

Walt Rappold romps around right end with Jean Berry.

Sophomore Fullback Mike Curtis strains for an additional gain.

Mark Leggett, Duke's leading rusher, eked out a few precious yards.

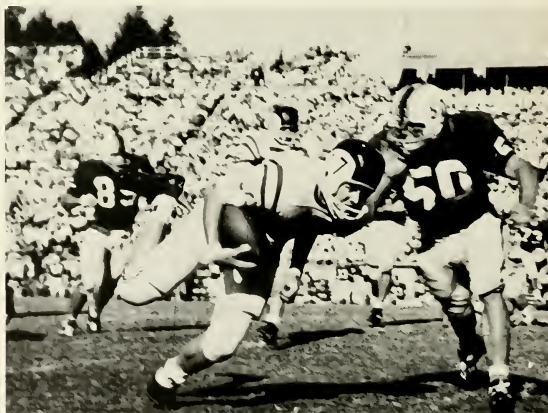

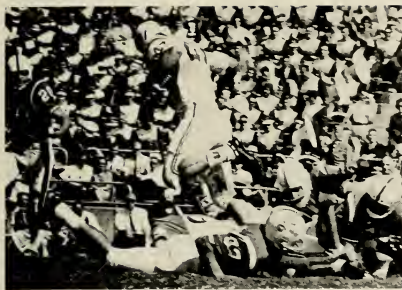

DUKE VS. SOUTH CAROLINA

Duke rolled to three second-half touchdowns to crush South Carolina 21-8. In the first half, Coach Marvin Bass's three platoons moved inside the Duke 10-yard line on three different occasions without success. Captain Johnny Markas, Center Paul Bengel, and Mike Curtis led the defensive stand.

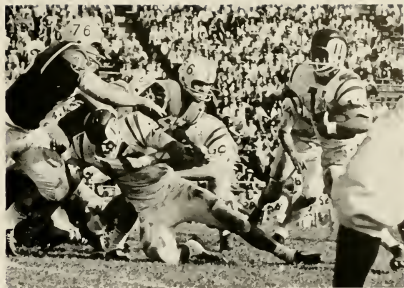

In the second half, aided by Billy Futrell's sensational catch of Walt Rappold's 38-yard pass, the Devils ground out a score. Futrell picked up the six points on a 14-yard burst off-tackle. Mark Leggett and Mike Curtis also scored to open up a 21-0 lead. Chuck Walker, Art Gregory, and Captain Markas were later cited for their outstanding line play.

DUKE VS. FLORIDA

Down by a disheartening 21-0 at halftime, the Blue Devils exploded for touchdowns the first four times they got their hands on the ball in the second half, and made off with a 28-21 win over Florida in the Gator Bowl.

The Blues raced out of the halftime huddle and marched 69 yards to score. The six points came on a two-yard plunge by halfback Mark Leggett. Stan Crisson made a leaping catch of Walt Rappold's pass for the two point conversion. The next time Duke gained possession, end Pete Widener snared Gil Garner's 33 yard pass for a TD. The hard-charging Devil forward wall blocked a Florida punt to set up the tying tally. Fullback Mike Curtis roared over from the two-yard line. Curtis scored again from the two at the end of a nine-play drive to set the scoreboard at 28-21. Halfback Billy Reynolds added two PAT's.

Curtis nets an extra half-yard.

Bill Baird, who may be another great one, piles into the line. Ken Williams and Dave Burdette watch his progress.

DUKE VS. CALIFORNIA

The Blue Devils rolled to their third consecutive victory by overpowering California 21-7, before an enthusiastic Homecoming crowd of 31,000. Playing their best first half of the season to date, the Dukes built up a 14-0 half-time lead behind the hard running of Mark Leggett, Mike Curtis, and Billy Futrell. Duke traveled 58 yards on the first scoring drive, with Leggett carrying the final six. In the second period, the Devils scored on a 50-yard march. The touchdown was set up when Jay Wilkinson returned a punt to the mid-field stripe. Gil Garner took over from there; key pass-completions on third-down and long yardage carried Duke downfield in a hurry. California narrowed the gap to 14-7 in the third quarter, but the visitors were through for the day, as the Devils put the game out of reach with a final TD. Mike Curtis bulled his way over for his second score of the afternoon. The final statistics revealed a fierce ground attack; Duke piled up 225 yards rushing. The Golden Bears were limited to 12 yards on the ground and 215 yards on total offense.

DUKE VS. CLEMSON

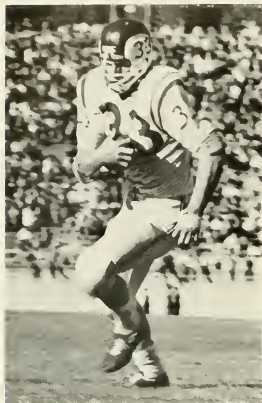

With an improved pass defense, the Devils blanked Clemson 16-0 for their fourth consecutive win. Duke took the opening kickoff and marched 68 yards to the Clemson 2. Here, Fullback Mike Curtis fumbled and the Tigers recovered. Later in the first half, Curtis picked off a Tiger pass and returned it to the Clemson 14. Four plays later, the rangy sophomore scored his sixth TD of the season. In the dying moments of the first half, Clemson drove to the Duke 1-yard line, before Jay Wilkinson recovered a Tiger fumble to end the only serious Clemson threat.

In the second half, Curtis intercepted another Tiger pass and returned it to the Duke 30. The Devils then drove 70 yards in 10 plays to score again. Walt Rappold carried the last four yards. Duke closed out the scoring when Billy Reynolds kicked a 30-yard field goal to go with a PAT. It was a black day for the "Death Valley" faithful. Duke intercepted 5 passes and recovered 2 Tiger fumbles.

DUKE VS. N. C. STATE

The Devils edged the Wolfpack on a last-ditch, fourth-quarter pass-play, recording their fifth straight win, 21-14. The 25,000 fans in Duke Stadium saw State recover a fumble in the first quarter on the Duke 19. Five plays later, the invaders from Raleigh had grabbed the lead. Finally, with only 2:30 remaining in the first half, Duke gained possession and an explosive offense scored in 90 seconds. An incredible 28-yard run by Halfback Jay Wilkinson put the ball on the State 14. Three plays later, Pete Widener cut straight across the end zone to grab a pass from Walt Rappold. The PAT was wide, and the score remained 7-6, State.

Taking the second-half kickoff, the Devils scored in six plays. Mark Leggett and Wilkinson reeled off the long yardage. With the ball on the 4-yard line, Mike Curtis drove around end for his seventh TD of the season and a 12-6 lead. After an illegal procedure penalty, the two-point conversion was completed from the 8-yard line, on a screen pass from Rappold to Curtis. The hungry Wolfpack struck back with a 68-yard drive to tie the score. With only seconds remaining, Swing-end Stan Crisson outmaneuvered the State defenders and pulled in Rappold's 14-yard pass in the left corner of the end zone. DUKE VS. GEORGIA TECH

Duke carried a five-game winning streak into a traditionally tough inter-conference battle with Georgia Tech. Coach Bobby Dodd's Yellow Jackets darkened the already overcast afternoon with a 20-9 win. Quarterback Billy Lothridge directed the Engineers to a 17-3 lead at the intermission. Duke's only score in the discouraging first half came on a Billy Reynolds field-goal on fourth down, after a 78-yard drive bogged down on the Tech 9-yard line.

The Devils outscored Tech in the second half but could not overcome the 14-point deficit. Lothridge closed out the Jackets' scoring with a 35-yard field-goal in the third period. The lone Duke touchdown capped an 84-yard penetration in the fourth quarter. A perfect pass from Walt Rappold to Swing-end Pete Widener went for 50 yards. Billy Futrell crashed over on a 1-yard sweep. Mike Curtis, Jean Berry, and Art Gregory were cited for fine performances against the "Ramblin' Wreck."

DUKE VS. MARYLAND

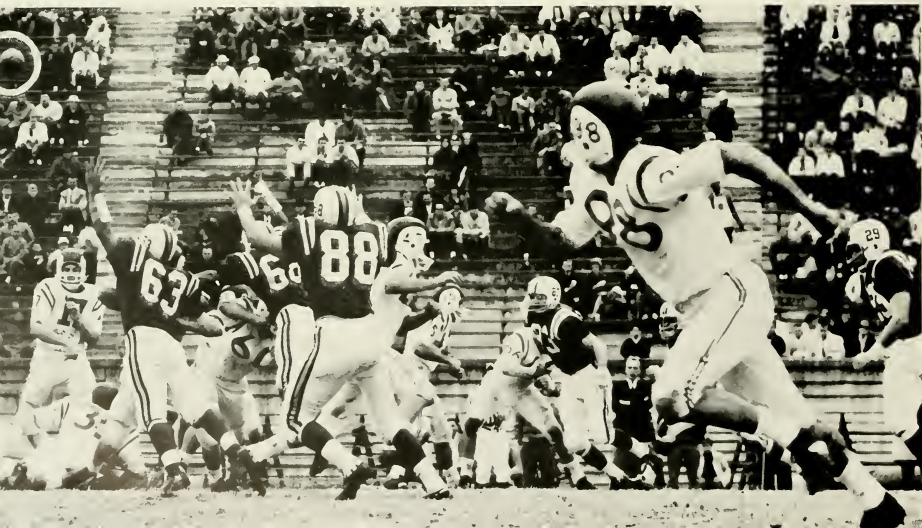

The Duke defense found strength when it needed it, and the offensive machine scored often enough to enable the Devils to grab a 10-7 Conference win over Maryland. The visiting Terps had little trouble driving deep into Duke territory, but an Iron Duke squad was tough inside their own 20, intercepting two passes and stopping several other Maryland drives on the ground.

After taking the opening kick-off on its own 16, Maryland marched to the Duke 12-yard line, where Mark Leggett picked off a pass from Dick Shiner to stem the tide. Following a Duke penetration, the teams exchanged fumbles. At this point, Billy Reynolds came off the bench to kick a 38-yard field-goal to give the Blues a 3-0 lead. In the second quarter, Paul Bengel intercepted another Shiner aerial on the Duke goal line. The half ended, as Maryland failed on a field-goal attempt.

The Devils drove 57 yards in 10 plays to score their only touchdown of the day in the second half. Mark Leggett carried for 28 yards en route, and Mike Curtis scored his eighth TD of the season. Reynolds converted to make the score 10-0. The game was far from over, though, as Maryland bounced right back to make the score 10-7. The Terps had field-position and possession for the rest of the game, but Dalton and Burdette threw Quarterback Shiner for key losses to dampen Maryland's hopes for the A.C.C. crown.

DUKE VS. WAKE FOREST

All but two of the Dukes who made the trip to Winston-Salem saw action, as the Blue Devils dismantled the Deacons 50-0. Billy Futrell led the way; he scored the first touchdown on a 10-yard dash and sprinted 58 yards to set up another score on the Wake 3-yard line. Gil Garner scored on a sneak, Mark Leggett smashed in from the 5, and Billy Reynolds kicked a 45-yard field-goal to run up the score. At half-time, the Dukes raced to the dressing-room with an impressive 24-0 lead.

In the third period, End Zo Potts recovered a loose ball to set up another Futrell touchdown. Minutes later, the fleet halfback recorded his third score of the day on a 23-yard run. In the final period of play, Billy Reynolds scored the first touchdown of his collegiate career, when he returned an intercepted pass for 16 yards. Sophomore Bill Baird followed suit, as he cut and weaved 52 yards with a stolen aerial. Reynolds also added 5 extra points to put the finishing touches on the breezy victory.

DUKE VS. U.N.C.

History and Billy Reynolds have a strange way of repeating themselves. Few will forget his performance in the 1961 Duke-Carolina game, when he kicked two dramatic field-goals to down Carolina 6-3. This year, the script was the same. The Carolina side of Kenan Stadium was thinking in terms of an upset. Reynolds was thinking of how to put the ball between the uprights. He kicked three field-goals, the last one with 49 seconds showing on the clock, to give Duke a hard-fought, 16-14 win.

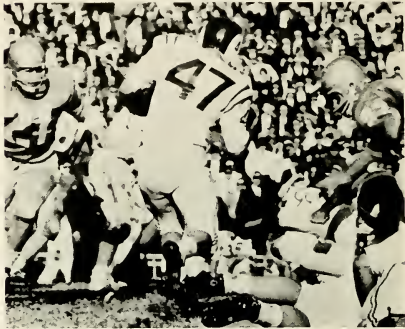

After Reynolds' first field-goal, Carolina scored on a 24-yard pass-play to take a 7-3 lead. On the last play of the first half, Reynolds booted his second three-pointer to cut the lead to 7-6. In the third quarter, the Tarheels were threatening on the Duke 4-yard line, but All-American Jean Berry broke through on fourth down and threw Junior Edge for a 4-yard loss. From here, the Devils, with Walt Rappold at the helm, drove 92 yards in 15 plays for the touchdown. Billy Futrell scoring from the 5. An 8-yard pass from Edge to Lacey made it 14-13, but Carolina was through for the day. Time was running out and the Dukes had put on a sustained drive into Tarheel territory. A re-measurement on fourth down and short yardage gave the ball to Carolina. Seconds later, Walt Rappold jarred the ball loose from a Tarheel back, Duke recovered, and the stage was set for Reynolds. The win gave Duke a 6-0 conference record and an 8-2 mark over-all.

BASKET

It all began when Vic Bupas took charge of the Indoor Stadium in 1959. In that very first season as head coach, he guided Duke to an Atlantic Coast Conference Championship and the quarter-finals of NCAA play. The following year, the Devils won 22 and lost 6, were runners-up in the ACC and ranked in the nation's top 10 throughout the season. Last year was politely billed as a "rebuilding" season; the team finished with a 20-5 record.

And then 1962-1963: the stage was set for two All-American forwards, a pair of 6' 10" pivotmen, and a bevy of underrated backcourt performers.

BALL

Just about everyone in basketball expected Coach Vic Bubas to field the finest team in Duke history this season. The optimistic pre-season forecasts seemed entirely accurate, as the Blue Devils scored more than 90 points in four of their first five games. Heyman, Mullins & Company then invaded the University of Louisville and squeaked through with a 76-75 win over the determined Cardinals. Lightning struck not once, but twice during "Black Week," when the team was caught off-guard by inspired groups at Davidson and Miami of Florida. The two losses were by the barest of margins, 5 points at 72-69 and 71-69, but defeat left a bitter taste in everyone's mouth. The taste was soon forgotten.

Returning to form and anxious to regain some of its lost prestige, the team pasted Princeton, 85-74, during the Christmas holidays. Basketball fans in Greensboro were also treated to some holiday fireworks; an overflow crowd of some 9,000 looked on while Duke methodically demolished Wake Forest in a sensational second half. The final count was 113-87. After the game, Deacon Coach Bones McKinney was heard muttering something about "Wait till Winston-Salem!" Before the break for final examinations, the Blues matter-of-factly disposed of N. C. State, Navy, and Clemson.

There was considerable anxiety in and around Durham, when Rod Thorn led the West Virginia Mountaineers into the Indoor Stadium. After all, the Duke squad was playing fresh after a two-week break. The question teasing most minds was "What would be the result of that layoff?!" Exactly 4 seconds were required to find out. The opening tap went from Buckley to Mullins, who outraced nine men to the basket for two points. As the crowd and TV-viewers stared in disbelief, the Devils never stopped running. They outran, outjumped, outshot, and clearly outclassed the West Virginians. The much publicized Heyman-Thorn duel never

ACC—NCAA

Resuming ACC play, Duke blitzed South Carolina, 88-70, and pulled out an exciting win over the Tarheels in bandbox Woollen Gym. The Baptists were once again outmanned on their home court, 97-66. The word from Bones: "Wait till Durham!" Still on the road, Coach Bunas ran into wily Everett Case, who threw up a tight defense and a slow-down offense in an effort to stop the Devils. It almost worked, but Duke took State, 56-55. Five-point winners over Virginia at Charlottesville, the team celebrated its return home at the expense of Wake Forest. The Reverend McKinney had only this: "Wait till the Tournament."

There was simply no stopping Duke. Gathering momentum, the squad marched over Maryland and then pounded Carolina into submission. The latter contest was not one to miss. Arthur Bruce Heyman, "Mr. Basketball," was making his last home-court appearance. Sentiment hung thick as Art accepted the thanks and appreciation of well-wishers. He then played a magnificent game, with career-highs of 40 points and 24 rebounds.

With that peak performance against Carolina, Heyman had to taper off . . . just a little. When he did, Jeff Mullins was there to pick up the slack. The two led the team through the ACC Tournament. The final game was against Wake Forest. In the dressing room, Bones was still shaking his head and mumbling. No one was listening now.

ACC—NCAA

From Raleigh direct to College Park, a delirious contingent of Duke fans watched the Devils extend the victory skin to 20. N.Y.U. and St. Joseph's of Pennsylvania fell by the wayside, as Jeff Mullins led the scoring each night. Then on to Louisville and a flirtation with the NCAA Championship. Loyola of Chicago galloped to an early lead, which was made to stand up. The next night, Duke drubbed Oregon State for third-place.

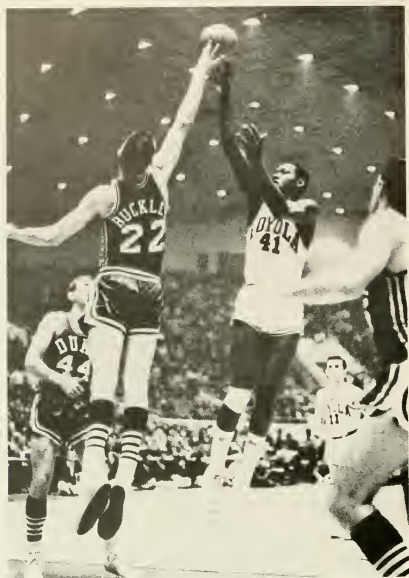

The high-scoring, crowd-pleasing 1962-1963 team and Captain Art Heyman rewrote the Duke record books. The squad was the highest-scoring ever in University history—2,496 points scored during the season—and the most accurate—51.1% from the field. Three-time All-American Art Heyman crased Dick Groat's name in several departments, among them career scoring; Art's record—1,984 points. Jeff Mullins is already the number seven scorer in Duke's all-time elite. Jay Buckley set a record for field-goal accuracy—60.0%. "Bird" was right behind Heyman in rebounding at 9.0 recoveries per game and supported the one-two punch with an 11.4 scoring average. Hack Tison proved he has the makings. He can run, shoot, rebound, dribble, and electrifies crowds by blocking shots. Behind the front line, some excellent guards went unheralded but were vital to Duke's success story. Fred Schmidt and Buzzy Harrison, sparkling on both offense and defense, started in the backcourt. They were backed up by "Heckle and Jeckle," Ron Herbster and Denny Ferguson.

While not as strong as some Duke teams in the recent past, the 1962 squad compiled a better than .500 record of 13 wins as against 12 losses and one tie. The team's ACC victims were N. C. State, North Carolina, Clemson, Virginia, and South Carolina; non-conference wins were over Dartmouth, Princeton, Amherst, Rollins, Colby, and Florida State. The pitching chores were handled by Bob Turner and Dick Densmore. Densmore led the ACC with 68 strikeouts and a 7-3 record. Pacing the Blue Devils at the plate were Captain Lynn Fader and Bob Rankin and Dave Uible, who hit .337 and .324 respectively. The team's record in Conference play, a disappointing sixth in the final standings, can be traced to a slump at the tail-end of the season. With several starters returning and some promising sophomores, Coach "Ace" Parker anticipates a better 1963 season.

TRACK

A host of individual stars and team depth contributed to the success of the 1962 track team. Duke finished the season with the best record in the conference, 5-2, losing only to Maryland and to non-conference foe Miami. In the annual A.C.C. meet, the team placed third.

The victory over UNC was significant not only because it was an upset, but also because it proved the importance of the number three man. Depth was not as apparent in the triumphs over South Carolina, Virginia, Wake Forest, and Clemson, but the third-place finishers decided the Carolina meet. Lou Van Dyck beat Scott Brent, ACC champ, in the half-mile, and Vic Braren took an unexpected third. Jim Scott took third in the pole vault, an event for which he had only three weeks' preparation.

As to the individual heroes, Jerry Nourse closed out his collegiate career undefeated in the two-mile run. Dick Gesswein was voted the Outstanding Athlete in the ACC meet for the second straight year. At that same meet, Gesswein broke the Conference shot-put record for the fourth time during the season. John Zwerner was a consistent winner in the 100 and 220; he also ran in the mile relay and was the team's high scorer.

LACROSSE

Before the start of the regular season, the lacrosse team played an exhibition match with the Australian National Lacrosse Team, which toured the United States last spring. During the regular schedule, the stickmen played national powers Virginia, Navy, and Maryland and had a disappointing 3-6 record. Led by Lloyd Griffith, Coach Persons' charges scored victories over Georgia, Washington and Lee, and the "Great Grads," in a game played annually against Duke's lacrosse alumni. Mike Sherman, the team's leading scorer, Buck Buckalew, Mike Welsh, Dick Brock, Pete Widener, Bob Vorhees, and Goalie Jack Bennett rounded out the starting unit.

SOCCER

Led by All-Southern and All-American Dean Ross and Fred Beguin, the 1962 soccer squad scored 36 goals, while Goalie Bob Mueller allowed only 2 balls through the net, to sweep through the first six games of the season undefeated. The victims served up to the Devils were Appalachian State, Roanoke, Virginia, Washington and Lee, Davidson, and North Carolina State. This was no bed of roses, though, as the Blymen ran into a rugged Navy crew and lost a rain-soaked battle, 4-1. The team lost another hard-fought contest to Maryland, perennial ACC Champions, by the close score of 3-1. The season ended with a 2-0 win over Mason-Dixon Champion Lynchburg and a disappointing loss to Carolina, 1-0. The team's 7-3 record earned them third place in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

CROSS-COUNTRY

Blue Devil cross country men Weisiger, Van Dyck, Campbell, and Blumfeldt leave opposition behind.

The Iron Dukes completed their first undefeated dual meet season in three years, with an 8-0 record against ACC opposition and V.P.I. Although placing second to Carolina in both the State and ACC meets, the squad managed a 27-28 victory over the Tarheels during the regular season. Returning lettermen Dave Blumfeldt, Frank Campbell, Lloyd Brinson, Lou Van Dyck, Stanley Gentry, and Nick Gray formed a dependable nucleus, strengthened by promising sopomores John Weisiger and Bob Waite. Van Dyck came into his own late in the season, winning the State meet and placing second in the ACC. Blumfeldt was a steady runner throughout the season, winning the early meets and placing third in the State run. Campbell and Weisiger also placed consistently.

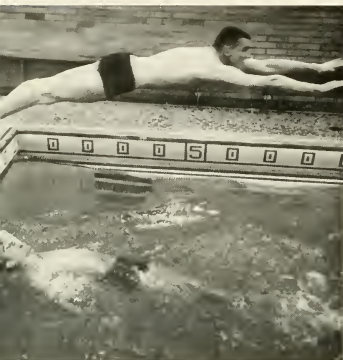

The thinclads easily disposed of South Carolina, Wake Forest, and N. C. State, as Blumfeldt broke the tape first in all three races. Although a Duke runner failed to finish first against Virginia and Maryland, the harriers won handily to continue unbeaten. Weisiger led the Devils to victory in a dual meet with Clemson and V.P.I., leaving only Carolina for an 8-0 regular season slate. Coach Al Buchler considered the season a success and the team "... as well balanced as we ever had ..."

SWIMMING

Comprised mainly of sophomores and juniors, the swimming team compiled a creditable 6-4 overall record, 4-3 in Atlantic Coast Conference dual-meet competition. Led by co-captains John Woodworth and Chuck Hill, the standout swimmers were Bob Kingsbury, Dave Goodner, Jim Caraway, Cal King, and Spike Narten. Duke's victims were Davidson, Wake Forest, South Carolina, Clemson, Georgia Tech, and Virginia. Coach Jack Persons insists the team's finest hour was against Georgia Tech, when the squad broke four Tech pool records. The team's losses were suffered at the hands of Carolina, Navy, N. C. State, and Maryland. The Devilfish also turned in fine performances in the March aquacades—the ACC and NCAA Championships in Raleigh and the Easterns at Princeton.

WRESTLING

Coach Carmen Falcone's varsity matmen finally ended a three-year losing streak by gaining a decision, 18-16, over the University of North Carolina. The Devils won at 123-lbs. by forfeit. Jim Bierfield and Jeff Lee pinned their opponents at 130-lbs. and 137-lbs. respectively, to give Duke a 15-0 advantage. The margin of victory was provided by Captain Dick Lam, a sophomore, who gained a decision at 167-lbs. The team lost this year to Virginia. The Citadel, N. C. State, Davidson, Washington and Lee, and Maryland, the ACC Champion. Joe Politi, Randy Myers, Staley Gentry, Bob Jordan, Warren Seagraves, and Walt Mochling nevertheless turned in some fine efforts. The future of Duke wrestling must be considered bright. Freshman Coach Harvey's squad posted a 4-2 record; John Holder, Jim Holbert, and Luke Sharpe should have outstanding varsity careers.

TENNIS

Weakened by the loss of Joe Gaston, ACC singles champion, through graduation, Coach Bob Cox's netmen finished the season with a respectable 11-7 record. Led by co-captains Clyde Gouldman and Hobe Hyde, the squad beat ACC rivals Wake Forest, N. C. State, Maryland, Virginia, and South Carolina, as well as such formidable opposition as the University of Florida and Rollins College. But, as in past years, the team had trouble with the University of Miami and Carolina. Butch Griffin, playing in the number one slot in the early part of the season, was out for the latter part of the year because of illness. Gerry Mattson, a talented sophomore, took over the top seed for the remainder of the year. Al McIntosh, Ken McCullough, Barker French, and Kurt Steinman rounded out the team, which finished third in the Conference.

GOLF

Coached by E. P. "Dumpy" Hagler, the Blue Devil golf team captured the ACC title for the second consecutive year. The team went undefeated in ACC dual matches and also won the ACC meet. Led by George Smith, Dick Dion, Rich Bassett, John Abernathy, and Dave Franklin, the squad started slowly and dropped their first two matches. But the duffers staged an Arnold Palmer comeback, storming through the remainder of the schedule to finish with a 12-2 record. After the completion of regular season play, the NCAA Championships were held on the Duke course. The host team finished an excellent third, to complete a successful season.

Duke students send basketball team off to College Park.

MEN'S INTRAMURALS

Intramural athletics serve as an outlet for relieving the strains and pressures built up in the course of day-to-day classroom activities. Physical fitness and development and a healthy sense of group participation are the principal contributions of the Duke IM program. Every student is given the opportunity to participate in some form of competitive athletics. Directed this year by Senior Manager Pete Linsert, the intramural program sponsored football, basketball, volleyball, and softball leagues. The playoff for an IM football champion involved two games in Duke Stadium before large partisan followings. Tournaments were also held in minor sports—wrestling, horseshoes, and badminton..

WOMEN'S INTRAMURALS

Adding spirited rivalry to the lives of many listless co-eds, the Woman's Recreation Association sponsors dorm and sorority competition. Individual tournaments in tennis, badminton, and table tennis provided the highlights for the fall program. Spring found many co-eds doing it "Robin Hood style" in the annual archery competition. With a newly-initiated point system in effect, the results of all events became topics of general interest, as an air of animated competition pervaded East Campus.

BEAUTIES

“The best part of beauty is that which no picture can express”

CHANTICLEER QUEEN

JAN DUFF

A striking blonde from Wenham, Massachusetts, Jan has been active in campus affairs. She has participated in Pegasus and Terpsichorean and trod the boards in the Wesley Players. Her major is Art History, and she is an artist in her own right. She is Art Editor of the Archive, and her charcoal drawings regularly appear in the magazine. Elected to the senior women's leadership honorary, Phi Kappa Delta, Jan plans to continue her studies in graduate school.

Jackie Gleason's exuberance in all activities—television, theater, music, liquor, food, and beauty—led to his choice as the judge of the 1963 CHANTICLEER Beauty Contest. His selection of Janice Duff as this year's queen is indicative of his reputation as a connoisseur.

VIRGINIA LILY

Ginny comes from Indianapolis, Indiana, and makes her home on East in Gilbert House. Her major is English, and her sorority is Pi Beta Phi. She enjoys swimming, reading, and her work as a freshman advisor.

DOROTHY ALBERS

"Dort" hails from Grand Rapids, Michigan. As a senior, this is her second and, unfortunately, final appearance in the Court. Her major is elementary education, and her favorite sport is swimming. She resides in Bassett House and is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

EMILIA SANT-AMAND

A sophomore from Gaffney, South Carolina, Emilia is making her second appearance in our Beauties Section. She lives in Jarvis House and is a member of Alpha Delta Pi. An elementary education major, she is also a member of the Student Union Major Attractions Committee.

CAROL ROGERS

This attractive junior nurse from Haworth, New Jersey, is making her third appearance in the Chanticleer Beauty Court. Carol is an active participant in many campus organizations and, when time permits, she enjoys outdoor sports.

LOVE MEEKER

Love is a sophomore resident of Addoms House. She is an accomplished dancer, with a preference for modern jazz as the background for her arrangements. She worked as a dancing instructor in Washington last summer and performed at half-time shows this past winter.

ANNETTE COOPER

A native of Morehead City, North Carolina, Annette lives in Gilbert House. A popular member of the junior class, she is majoring in French. Her sorority is Alpha Delta Pi.

MARGO KIXMILLER

Margo is the third girl from Washington, D. C. and the second nurse to be represented in the Beauties Section this year. Her interests include French, art, and music. During the summer, she likes to travel.

RIPPLE GILBERT

Rip is the only freshman to appear in the Beauty Court this year. She has not yet decided on a major course of study, though she has expressed an interest in psychology. Another resident from the nation's capital, Rip lives in Pegram House. Her sorority is Delta Delta Delta.

Johnny Markas crowns Betsy Woodhall as the 1962 Homecoming Queen.

HOMECOMING QUEEN

A beautiful day, pretty girls, and a victory over the University of California highlighted Homecoming 1962. In addition, alumni, friends, and students were treated to skits, posters and colorful displays, barbecues and parties, a Homecoming Dance, and a giant pep rally.

At the Friday night Homecoming Show, Miss Betsy Woodhall of Durham was crowned as the 1962 Homecoming Queen by Johnny Markas, Captain of the football team. Beauty titles, although they are nothing new, still thrill Betsy, who has been the Nurses' Beauty Queen and the 1962 Chanticleer Queen. A former resident of East Campus, Betsy is now a senior in the School of Nursing. She plans to put her nurse's training to use in a private surgical clinic after graduation.

Bette Garrett, Southgate; Sue Curry, Brown; Harriet Hester, Jarvis; Beatrice Beach, Addoms; Kay Ellen Isley, Gilbert; Dorothy Albers, Bassett; Frances Hitchcock, Alspaugh; Joan Jarden, Giles; Laura Carver, Pegram; Rebecca Strother, Aycock; Elizabeth Woodhall, Hanes.

Sue Curry, May Queen.

MAY QUEEN

The Woman's College elected Sue Curry of Indianapolis, Indiana, as its 1963 May Queen. The crown is awarded on the basis of service to the University. Sue is a member of White Duchy, Phi Kappa Delta, and Pi Beta Phi sorority. She has served as president of Brown House and as an FAC. Last summer, she was in Tanganyika as a participant in the program "Crossroads Africa." Sue plans to enter the Columbia East Africa Teacher's Program and perhaps return to Tanganyika.

AND COURT

Sue Curry, Ann Barbour, Sandy Harrison, Ann Irwin.

NURSES' BEAUTY

The Nurses' Beauty Queen is chosen at the annual Christmas Dance. Freshman Kitty Hardenburg was selected this year over seven other candidates vying for the honor. Hailing from College Park, Maryland, Kitty is a member of the Student Union Social Committee and the Hanes House Student-Faculty Committee. Although free time is a luxury in Hanes House, Kitty enjoys horseback riding and swimming when she can.

INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL

The Duke Interfraternity Council was organized to secure harmony, cooperation and unity among the eighteen fraternities on this campus. In order to do this, the IFC is divided into two principal bodies: the Council and Presidents and the Executive Board. The Council of Presidents, which approves legislation, is composed of the presidents of the fraternities and is governed by the president of IFC, Tuck Forsyth. The Executive Board, the executive and judicial branch of IFC, delegates part of its power to several committees in order to better fulfill the purposes of IFC. They are the Investigating, Rush, Greek-Week, Publications, Scholarship, Pledge, and Public Relations Committees.

This year the Interfraternity Council inaugurated several new activities. One was a radio program which was broadcasted by WDWS and gave fraternity news. Another was a revision of Greek-Week, which boasted a concert by a big name group, a dance, a coed track meet, and chariot races. IFC also sent a letter home to the parents of freshmen to explain the values of the fraternity system, and sponsored a rotating scholarship trophy for the fraternity with the highest grade point average on campus.

PANHELLENIC COUNCIL

The Panhellenic Council, the representative body of the sororities at Duke, is designed to promote co-operation among the sororities and to coordinate their activities with those of the school and city. The Council is composed of two representatives from each sorority and thirteen ex-officio members—the sorority presidents. The group meets weekly in an attempt to find new methods of unifying the thirteen member sisterhoods and to work for the good of the individual sisters and the University Community. Pan-Hel is divided into several committees which work on various phases of sorority life and its problems. A major committee this year was the one which worked on getting a new Greek building for East Campus. Letters were sent to alumnae for support; the committee received many positive replies and good ideas.

The Council, under the leadership of Judy Anderson, began its activities with rush and a Greek Day to introduce freshmen to the sorority system. Pan-Hel also sponsored a fashion show in December and the Greek Follies—"Devils Revils"—in February, in which various sororities presented skits, and joined with the IFC for the expanded Greek Week in the spring.

GREEK LIFE

For many members of the student body, joining a fraternity or sorority is a major event. At this time, the individual decides which fraternity offers him the most and to which he can contribute. Thus, while Greek life is outwardly and symbolically expressed by the fraternity or sorority pin, it holds a deeper meaning—the reciprocity of brotherhood and fellowship in each chapter.

The various Greek orders are annually rejuvenated through rush. Hectic days of smiles, chow trains, and parties usually end with sore hands, tired knees, and laryngitis. The real entrance into fraternity life, however, occurs during pledging—climaxed by initiation—an unforgettable experience in the life of every Greek. Initiation is accompanied by the secrets of mystic and meaningful ritual, esoteric handshakes, the formation of lasting friendships, and, oddly enough, the first month's dues. A part of each fraternity's funds is forwarded to the national office, but these are social organizations, and the bulk of the money is used to sponsor a crowded social schedule—cabin parties, combos, cook-outs, open houses, pledge formals, banquets, and beach week-ends.

Each spring, fraternities and sororities compete with one another and carouse together during "Greek Week." In addition to the traditional carnival and track meet, Greek Week this year featured a concert by the Chad Mitchell Trio, followed by a dance with the Zodiacs.

KΔ's and their toothpaste smiles.

The essential precepts of fraternal bodies—fellowship and brotherhood—are strengthened in the course of academic and athletic competition. Fraternity and sorority study halls are places to help “raise the average,” and, perhaps, to discuss the last memorable and the next unbelievable party. Greeks are constantly battling for top honors in the intramural program. The brothers and sisters also compete in less strenuous activity, constructing displays, posters, and floats for Homecoming and the Joe College Parade. Fraternity and sorority charity projects in the greater Durham community win friends and augment University public relations; but work with and for the less fortunate is also a rewarding experience for the individual brought up in the Judaeo-Christian tradition. The part fraternities and sororities play in the daily life of the campus is an important one, a vital role in the well-rounded college community.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

Suddenly it was September, it was Duke, it was Rush—and the Alpha Chi's were back, full of summer inspirations, to start another year. Entertaining both the rushees and ourselves, we found fifteen girls anxious to wear the AXO pledge pin. We costumed for a Halloween party at the Cerebral Palsy Hospital, danced away a Friday evening at the annual fall semiformal, and retreated to Dean Brinkley's house for a Sunday of evaluation and planning sessions. A special program meeting featuring Mr. Warner of Ellis-Stone resulted in the transformation of Betty and Kitty! Then home for Christmas and back to romp (?) through finals. Second semester brought Peanut Pal Week, the Pledge Dance, and Joe College. It all seemed to go so fast that we could hardly believe finals were here again, and we ended another year with "love in AXO."

ALPHA DELTA PI

September brings rush, the enchanted forest and visions of pledges, which become glorious reality in October. Big sisters take their protégés underwing and then ensue the pledge banquet, pledge swaps, the ADPi-KKG party under the direction of Barbara and Kelley. Homecoming, the CHANTICLEER call forth our beauties, Phi Kap chooses a Sweetheart, Phi Beta taps Nancy and Sherer; Trish is a Who's Who. The fall brought diamonds and at Christmas wedding bells ring. Then to C. P. with the KA's and Santa. Omicron met 1963 with "vigah" on our Spruce Pines retreat. The pledges are presented at the pledge dance, initiated, and we welcome our new sisters. Suddenly spring burst forth full of activities—Greek Week, elections, Joe College, Senior Banquet, exams, fun in the sun at Pawley's, graduation.

ALPHA EPSILON PHI

This was a year of activities and fun for the AEPhi's. Rush had an added French touch, and at its end we celebrated with a pizza party at Mayola's with our new pledges. As a result of our spirited pledges, we have bright and shiny furniture in our chapter room. This year our actives have been concerned with studying, getting married or having a good time. Diane was in Ivy and Marcia in the Honors Program. The two Gail's and Bobbi have had an intensive course in home economics at Durham High. Michigan and a lavalier called Linda back to Ann Arbor. Last but certainly not least are Adie and Max. . . . For fun and games Sarah returned for our Hanukkah party. Throughout the year we had speakers, bowling parties, dinner parties and mixers with fraternities from State and Carolina. The pledge dance was the spring's great success.

ALPHA PHI

The Alpha Phi's greeted fall rushes in a new room—still in Carr—and won seventeen pledges to wear the ivy leaf. Rush over, we heard Donna's memories of National Convention and banqueted as Big and Little Sisters. With November came initiation, two new sisters for the actives, and a pledge swap hosted by our pledges. Even weekly meetings were great—the pledges passed "all that stuff we've gotta learn" with Kathy's help, and the actives had comedy with formal meetings. We continued our philanthropic work by helping with parties for the patients at the VA Hospital. Spring semester whizzed by and the Senior party and beach party were here.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

We came, we saw, and we were down on our knees! Rush "revival," under the direction of Ginny, Carol, and our spiritualist JVD, brought the "light" of Tri-Delta sisterhood to twenty rushees. Down in the cellar, a few weeks later, glowing Deltas feasted on pizza, sang songs, and reminisced of Rathskellar parties past! "Dorrie Delta" pilgrimaged, via three volkswagons, to Chapel Hill and the Founder's Day banquet with the UNC chapter. Christmas was a-coming, but our Delta had time for the pine party, our annual visit to the Methodist Retirement Home, and playing Santa with the Sigma Chi's. White elephants on the quad! Just our rummage sale, for Tri-Delta's scholarship fund. Summer and Poseidon's call were answered by devoted daughters who enjoyed the year's final fling at Myrtle Beach.

DELTA GAMMA

Fall saw all the DG's returning ready for rush, our enthusiasm and spirit shown by the pledging of 25 wonderful girls. Meetings were characterized by a maximum of speakers and entertainment with a minimum of "business." Social life took up many gay times. There was the champagne party at the Saddle Club after the Homecoming game, and a Hallowe'en party given by the pledges. We will never forget renting a bus and the trip up to W & I. for Karen's wedding. We'll always remember Mary Jane's valiant and fruitful fight to catch the bouquet. Winter saw the traditional Christmas cocktail party held at Schrafft's. Next came Inspiration Week climaxed by the pledge dance and initiation. Spring brought the Founder's Day Banquet and the fun of working together on our Joe College float. The year's activities ended with the Senior Banquet and thoughts of prospective tans at the beach.

DG's welcome their new pledges.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

Returning from a summer of work, study, and travel, Theta, led by Lynn and Susie, "floated" into fall rush in bright muu muus to strains of the Hawaiian "War Chant." The new pledges discovered the identity of their big sisters at an annual Pizza Party and then joined the actives to start a new cooking class at Edgemont, to listen attentively to Margo's fraternity education programs, to join in the "biggest-ever" sorority cabin party, and to Christmas carol with the ATO's on December's warmest evening. March winds carried pledges' kites flying high, and the Thetas filled that month with initiation, hosting for District Convention, and, of course, the Golden Triad. Under the banner of "Golden Goddess Annia," ended '62-'63 with one last week at Myrtle Beach.

KAPPA DELTA

Sun tanned and sober, the Sigma Delta's whirled into a new year of work, fun, and friendship. At our rush retreat we discussed our farm party, South Pacific party, and ideas that led us through our best rush ever. A cabin party with the Tri-Delts, Thetas, and Zetas; streaks at the Angus Barn and a pizza party with "Bat"—seems like all we had was fun and food. In addition to their social side, the Sigma Delta's were making honors—some made Phi Beta, Campus beauty polls, and Who's Who. But KΔ did not stop there, for we baby sat with mentally retarded children and at Christmas we had a party at the V.A. Hospital. Second semester brought White Rose Week—the pledge banquet and dance, initiation, and many, many new sisters. We worked hard on Joe College and Greek Week and finalized our plans for the beach trip which brought another grand and successful KΔ year to a close.

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA

Kappa welcomed her twenty wonderful new sisters and jumped into the new year, meeting still more Kappas at the Founders' Day Dinner, drawing everyone closer to alums and Kappa sisters from Carolina. Fall has always meant cabin parties and football games, and the KKG's entered into the fun as they met the ADP's for a party—and accepted the Beta challenge to football. And then came the Christmas season with the ATO's and Santa at a party for the children of Edgemont and our own annual caroling and Christmas party. After exams, we proudly initiated our excited pledges and presented them at the Golden Triad. The Seminar Program offered a serious side to our sorority life as everything from religion to economics was discussed. Spring gave the Kappas an excuse to retreat, and then, suddenly, it was time for Joe College, Senior Banquet, the beach, and—regretfully—good-bye.

PHI MU

The Phi Mu's started the year the fun way with a retreat at the Holiday Inn where Pam and Carole told the chapter about National Convention at the Fontainebleau in Miami. After rush the alums feted us with a party at the home of Mrs. James Price, our alumnae adviser. We also spent many happy hours at Dilly's and Susan's. In November, we again visited the Holiday Inn for our Big-Little Sister Banquet and also sponsored the all-sorority Thanksgiving basket project for Edgemont families. There were several Christmas events—the most memorable was the caroling party. With Spring came Initiation and Founder's Day, the senior picnic and get-togethers in the Dean's House. Visits from Margie, our Scholarship Cup, the Joe College float, painting the Homecoming poster . . . these will be remembered by Gamma Ipsilon.

PI BETA PHI

September, 1962, brought sun-tanned, enthusiastic Pi Phi's from all corners of the U. S. A. back to Duke ready to plunge right into the hectic whirl of rush, led by Jonesie and Diana. Soon 20 great pledges were added to Pi Phi's circus and welcomed by the annual "cookie shine" and the pledge banquet at Hope Valley. Right away our fall calendar began to fill—a Homecoming breakfast for alums, the Big-Little Sister banquet at the Rat, our fall retreat forced inside by rain, a surprise Thanksgiving party for the pledges, the intramural volleyball championship, a "Hoe-down" with the Phi Deltas. Christmas arrived, and we joined the Betas in giving our annual party for the Edgemont children. Spring brought with it the Golden Triad, Monmouth Duo celebration with the Kappas, charity projects, a retreat at Spruce Pine Lodge, and lots of fun working on the Joe College float and on Greek Week.

The entertaining Pi Phi's.

SIGMA KAPPA

Alpha Psi Chapter began the year with rush, pledging, and excitement. The alumnae of the Durham area gave their support to all our programs, beginning with a wonderful picnic at the retreat in Duke Park. Our philanthropic work included trick-or-treating for UNICEF and stuffing toys for the Maine Sea Coast Mission. The Edgemont Brownie Troop was led by Pat Baugher and Val Lewis. A new area of service was undertaken in January when each girl "adopted" a grandmother at the King's Daughters Home. The annual pledge dance was made a Christmas formal and held jointly with the Gamma Phi Chapter at North Carolina State. Dr. Durden became the center of attention when he discussed careers for women. The pledges were initiated and a banquet was held in their honor, and a last farewell was given to the Seniors at a banquet.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

I HEAR THE CALL OF ZETA . . . Calling us from the beach, from summer jobs, from Summer's Never-Never Land—Calling us to return to Dook and get-in-there-and-Rush-you-guys!—Calling us to work, to serve, to party . . . IT IS ALWAYS WITHIN ME . . . Thank-Goodness-It's-Friday at the UG—Halloween at Granny Gremlin's ghastly garret—Christmas with Virginia's friend—joint orgy with Tri-Delt, Theta, and KD—guitar strummin' at the CP hospital—Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets—deposed: no longer the "KA's of East Campus"—Post-exam reckoning: Bean-Streak dinner—Zeta Week and Secret Buddies—long-awaited and hoped-for, maybe-it's-the-right-time Pledge Dance Initiation and they're ours for real—after all's said and done, it's back to the beach and "Zeta group-group, group, group-group" . . . AND MAKES ME EVER LOYAL TO MY FRATERNITY.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

Fall found Tau tradition repeating itself with many Sigma Beta rituals on the banks of the Eno, another "spectacular" at homecoming ignored by the Downtown Merchants Association, the Kappas and Taus bringing Santa to the Edgemont kids, and the climaxing social extravaganza, the Christmas Party. Charlie's roommate made All-American; Hoffman kept the Taus in command of the AFROTC unit; "W.S." Williams and the boys ran the S.U.; and "Bull" came within five minutes of setting a record of 37 straight.

After a brief interlude in late January for academic amends, the spring semester began with Jon's ski trains to Blowing Rock; a better than ever yachting venture at Lauderdale; Fran's terminating a tremendous year with the Sweetheart Ball; and the never-to-be-forgotten orgy at the Landis—all adding to a banner year under the reign of King David.

BETA THETA PI

Reluctantly the Betas gave up summer, but once settled (after an average of five room changes per man), "B-O-Eleven" began its best year yet. Toe took the social department in hand and presented a busy fall schedule, with frequent parties, open houses, and moves from the woods to the Y.O.T. Homecoming saw the Betas again demonstrate a unique craftsmanship in display construction. Slammer led a serenade and East Campus thrilled. Next the Beta-Kappa football game—revenge reserved for next year. The Beta-Pi Phi party for the Edgemont children highlighted Christmas, although Guinea ended any illusions the kids might have had about Santa Claus. Rush saw Melts and Tom garner the best of the Frosh, and Happy and Bonnar shaped them into Betas. Spring arrived with low-lai, Shreck, the Rock, Pledge Formal, Joe College, and the Beach Weekend.

Who ever thought a Beta could lose his head?

DELTA SIGMA PHI

Another year passed and there were few brothers who could have wished for a more successful one. The fraternity finished high scholastically; a winning football season initiated the usual surge to pre-eminence in intramurals; and, of course, the social schedule permitted opportunities for many "high" times. The cabin parties, section parties, and pledge formal were as great as ever. Both fall and spring rush were outstanding. The traditional Senior banquet ended two semesters which have many memories—the competition for most color TV hours . . . Harry Deal's first record . . . the replacement of Roy Pike . . . frequent returns of Chief Jackson in a "blaze" of glory . . . and especially that rather blurred recollection of Joe College.

Can I use it now?

A social schedule second to none, highlighted by the annual open house for Hanes House, parties with the Sigma Chi's and Pikas, and the annual Roaring Twenties Party, sustained us through first semester. Football Weekends and our intramural football team were part of fall, as were Sunday nights at the Legion Hut. Then the chapter room closed (part of the new approach to scholarship), but that didn't stop late-night television or poker games. The Christmas Dance was the best ever, and the annual exchange of gifts saw some appropriate, but never subtle, presents given among the brothers. Rush was one big party, but in five days, the party was over and we were going to study. We did, except for things like Belated New Year's Eve, the Queen Dance, Wannamaker Ball, and the unequivocal Beach Week.

Once again on Social Pro, the KA's studied all week and partied all weekend. Led by the conscientious efforts of Baby Huey, Ramey, Rat, and Thunderbutt, an all time scholastic high was attained. Coach Markas presided over the M.S.G.A. and the "Gator Bowl bound" football team, but wasn't able to do much to control Goodson's firework displays. All year long it seemed like getting married was the thing to do as Bridges, Bugg, Creech, and Guthrie all bit the dust. Of course Moss, Bryson, and Stoltz have also taken a big step. Arlee continued his tradition of wrecking at least one car a year, although, as of this writing, Ramsey has fallen slightly behind his schedule. Also it must be mentioned that Fly has already hired "Moto and the Mashers" to play at his wedding.

KAPPA SIGMA

Spirits ran high last fall as the Kappa Sigs converged on the newly decorated and furnished chapter and card rooms. The fall semester was kicked off with the music of the "Embers" in a spectacular quad party. Cabin parties and open houses again highlighted the football weekends. Then the television and card rooms were closed as a part of the Kappa Sigs' new approach to scholarship. The "sun and suds" semester began with a rush that netted us many fine freshmen. Due to the recent change in university policy, our fraternity meetings have been changed from the chapter room to Myrtle Beach. Joe College and beach weekends were great, as was the annual retreat to Nassau and warmer climates for spring vacations. Our intramural program, which brought us division titles in several sports, was ended by the traditional May Moon Memorial Games.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

During the past year the brothers of Lambda Chi Alpha enjoyed many memorable experiences. The installation of a spirited pledge class and a vigorous new group of officers began a most successful spring in 1962. Social activities highlighted nearly every week-end. The more unforgettable ones were the ice-skating party, the Spring Formal, the Hawaiian Luau, Joe College, and Beach Week-end. The good times were not detrimental to academics; Lambda Chi was second of the eighteen campus fraternities in scholastic average. Several brothers excelled in varsity sports, especially tennis, lacrosse, and swimming. The winning of the annual cake-race commenced the new school year. Cabin parties, touch football games, and beer parties provided recreation between classes and books.

But fifty miles for a pledge hike?

PHI DELTA THETA

Setting sail in September, the azure yacht commanded by Helmsman Briggs embarked on another journey. With the chapter room overhauled, sailing became much more fun. Social life on board was directed by Prentiss, MacCartee and company, with the former going overboard in the fall. Calm seas and smooth sailing enabled the sturdy blue craft to take on the services of numerous top novices during a successful rush. Many of the crew members became regulars with the ACC football champs while the rest battled Law School in the stadium until a winner emerged. Most of the crew were seasick after that Xmas gift-giving affair. Complaints and complements . . . Fast suffered as many of the crew became "tied-up" . . . Pi Phi's received chocolates with a new air and square-danced on deck aboard the ship Phi.

Jim Derby built a new bench. We painted the bench green. We painted the other benches green, too. (We have three benches.) Our homecoming display didn't have any devils or bears in it. (Fumble) Scinkuller bought a '50 Dodge pick-up truck. Martin and Truitt worked all semester on their green motorcycle. Flodden did the bird. I remember the "Fantastics." Most of all I remember Sal and Clay coming out of that steamer trunk. Funniest thing I have ever seen. T. A. got elected president. Toby Ann, his fiancee, is also our Rose Queen. What a power play. Speaking of girls, Cheese did all right. Poor guy hasn't been the same since.

Down in the cellar of the animal quad, worthy Alphas Clyde and Don "dorite" pushed, pulled, and shoved the men of the skull through another mystic year. Jeff and Trudge led the Junior and Sophomore classes while Slum, sporting a good reputation on East, and Juan, telling his "siek" jokes, followed at a distance. Among the noteworthy performances turned in were F.M. The Pi Kapps returned to the campus to write an unprecedented chapter in their book, "From Rags to Riches," or "Ping Kappa Pong; Upward and Onward." The fall semester was highlighted by the annual Rose Ball. Though our efforts went unrewarded, no one will forget Homecoming and "The Golden Bears Catch Their Lunch." While maintaining "the average," the brothers never failed to soak up the pleasures of cabin parties, intramurals, late flicks, and campus life. Rush was a special treat for the Pi Kapps as they wrote a special manual called "How to Rush From the Back Quad." With smiling faces and many new pens the brothers then turned to the joys of Spring, including cabin parties, beach week end, Beaux Arts Ball, and the annual pledge formal.

Office of the Dean: Yearly Confidential Report on SAE

All the Brothers returned this year, which presents a great challenge to the University. Their Suppressed Desires Party took a better turn to the worse. Again the SAE's wrecked at Homecoming awaiting the return of Ga. Tech. Fall activities stressed athletics; the Scream Team won the ABC League title, while the Tube Team garnered the Zenith Trophy. In addition fifteen of the Brothers made the Dean's Team; now the entire campus expects free cuts. Under such a system, the fraternity anticipates a tremendous Beach Month. We must be careful, for this group is our main worry to revive the horrendous spectacle of that Joe College thing. However, this fraternity gives the judiciary something to do, keeps the IFC treasury filled with fines, and gives the administration some competition.

Back first to Animal Quad were jolly Sigs Markham and Epes as Y-Men, and our football notables Super-Sig and Chuck-that-walks. Pig-p-n and Pesh engineered the Homecoming display, booting the Golden Bear three stories high. Socially, the Sigs enjoyed Brother Epes' fine planning, the extra dollar policy of Social Sig, and our great Sweetheart Week-end. Prairie-dog's pinmate, Miss Barbie Eislie, was crowned the Sweetheart while Hubs guided the serenade. Down campus, Brothers Broesche and Crain led the ΦBK's astray while Garbage-gums muddled on his Lotus. After a sensational rush led by the Littlest Sig, the chapter moved to pledging, spring football minus our All-American Consul, Beach Week-end, and finals. It was another great year and all were glad.

Returning to campus for another year, the Knights of House A rallied and marched forward to new heights under the swagger stick of Otto, The Despot, Beischer. Proceeding from the Christmas cocktail party, still notorious on the distaff side of the campus, to the Molotov cocktail party, where they celebrated their usual popularity with their neighbors on the Quad, the brothers enjoyed two better-than-average semesters highlighted by the wildfire spread of the Todd, the solution of the mystery of the first floor head, an Intramural football trophy, and Porter's average. Santa Claus Keen added something new to the spirit of Christmas. Spencer relinquished his position as undisputed sausage king, rush was better than ever, and people are still trying to remember whether or not they liked Greek Week better than Joe College.

Spirits were high as the brothers of Tau Epsilon Phi converged on Duke for another phenomenal year. Partying at Carolina and participating in campus events, TEΦ remained one of Duke's most active fraternities. The year was also filled with its usual array of milestones. El Gayo sat out the exam period and the Ultimate, who never lets you forget it, . . . Murray and his friend Aaron came to visit, Dave opened a grocery, and Elliot organized Durham. Led by its absentee chancellor, TEΦ entered Rush hopefully and exited victorious. (Is S. B. really from Scarsdale?) Barry forgot how to speak English (Gevain) and Zonk went South because he was. . . After an end-of-summer send-off from the White House, the brotherhood reappeared on Methodist Flats for another year of a Don Quixote-like existence. Climaxing our initial attack on the East with a group therapy session at O'Brient's, we engaged the windmill of classes. Pat and Sue lent a quasi-legal air to our parties, even the "Yard-and-a-half" Party! Christmas brought, according to Police Reports, an invitational New Year's Eve Tournament, by the grace of our SS friend in Delaware. By producing our own version of La Dolce Vita we survived until we could convene in Daytona. Returning from spring vacation to the Buckle of the Bible Belt we finished off Greek Week with a Roman Orgy, the rest of April dragging by with Dream Girl, Joe College, the Beer-Brother ball game, and Beach Week.

ZETA BETA TAU

The academic year 1962-1963 started off with a bang as Worm and the Crafty One made book, and S. Pook won the first four-team parley of the year. The year was marked by many regularities: Coast sneaking out at night; Buzzard losing at hearts; Stomach and roomie eating six meals a day; outstanding intramurals; and a great pledge class. Brother Schwachtooliebird has spent enough time at the Inn this year to be a Ricar and, needless to say, Rodent is still practicing monkish celibacy. Aside from UMOG and Chinese Open House, this year saw us high on the academic list as well as placing many brothers in leading campus positions. Alter still has blue eyes; the Pest is even greater; and the Tiger is even tougher. Aside from four new engagements, nothing has changed much. . . .

But we thought it was original.

ORGANIZATIONS

“The actions of men are like the index of a book; they point out what is most remarkable in them”

MEN'S STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

John Markas, President

The Men's Student Government Association seeks to maintain and promote the individual and general welfare of undergraduate men by embodying student opinion in legislation to be acted upon by the University. M.S.G.A. governs itself by the laws set down in its constitution and strives to develop within the student body a spirit of citizenship and a desire for progress, while co-operating with the administration and faculty.

One of the many important achievements of the 1962-1963 M.S.G.A. and the Markas administration was the role student government played in the creation of a Student-Faculty-Administration Committee. The Committee is the first of its kind to co-ordinate the efforts and goals of the entire University. Another useful movement toward campus unity was the dinner meetings of M.S.G.A. and its counterparts in the Woman's College and the School of Nursing. These joint meetings provided for the discussion of the problems and objectives of student government.

The M.S.G.A. Dormitory Evaluation Committee worked closely with the faculty Long-Range Planning Committee, in an effort to make use of student suggestions regarding student body. The Association ably represented West Campus in the drive for the installation of additional telephones, opening the Dope Shop on Sundays, and voluntary class attendance. Finally, M.S.G.A. laid the groundwork for a Duke University Lecture Series—to invite outstanding professors from other universities and contributed to a publication-fund for an anthology of the works of promising Duke authors.

WOMEN'S STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

During 1962-1963, the Women's Student Government Association devoted itself to a re-examination and re-evaluation of its role on campus. The findings of the various committees appointed to study the problem have, in many instances, led to concrete improvements. There had been, for example, considerable uncertainty as to the exact status of ex-officio members. By means of student balloting, ex-officio was formally defined as "non-voting"; the chairmen of the five WSGA committees, who had heretofore each held a vote, were then declared ex-officio members under the new ruling.

Prompted, perhaps, by the Council's resolution concerning the historical Cuban crisis, a proposal to amend the WSGA Constitution was put forth. The amendment would have limited the scope of WSGA, compelling the representative body to focus its attention on campus affairs. The measure was defeated, however, since it might prove unduly restrictive in future administrations. The procedure for conducting WSGA business was drastically revised; matters on the agenda are now referred to dorm meetings, rather than to the generally unpopular (and compulsory) assemblies. Moreover, weekly Council meetings are now held in house parlors, with the hope of creating greater student interest and participation. WSGA also revamped the controversial Social Standards Committee, redefining its role in terms of actual campus practices.

An opinion poll taken in the spring of 1962 was one factor in the ultimate realization of voluntary class attend-

NURSES' EXECUTIVE BOARD

The Nurses' Executive Council co-ordinates and supervises the diverse activities of the Nurses' Student Government Association. The Council is composed of N.S.G.A. officers, the several chairmen of the various N.S.G.A. committees, and the president of the freshman class. The composite group works to assure the enforcement of the N.S.G.A. Constitution, to unite student and faculty opinion, and, through the Nurses' Honor Code, to create in each individual a sense of personal responsibility.

During the past year, the Council considered a re-evaluation of the nurses' honor system and co-operated with a long-range planning board to explore avenues which might lead to the better functioning of the Nurses', Men's, and Women's Student Government Associations. The group also sponsored several East-Hanes House social functions, including student-faculty coffee hours.

ENGINEER'S STUDENT COUNCIL

The Engineer's Student Council co-ordinates the activities of the students, faculty, and administration of the College of Engineering. Chartered by the MSGA in 1952, the Council is the chief governing body of all engineering students and works to unite the activities of student organizations, honoraries, and societies within the College. Representing engineering students in their relations with the faculty and the University Community, the Council is composed of four elected officers and representatives from all College of Engineering organizations.

In 1962-1963, the Council sponsored freshman orientation lectures, redecorated the engineer's student lounge and published the DukEngineer. In March, the Council presented the annual Engineer's Show, which attracted some 10,000 curiosity-seekers.

MEN'S JUDICIAL BOARD

The M.S.G.A. Constitution entrusts the judicial power of the Association to the Judicial Board. At its weekly meetings, the Board considers misdemeanors committed by West Campus undergraduates. In determining the disciplinary action that should be taken in each case, the Board is reminded of its function—to maintain order in the University community—and its goal—to aid the individual to profit from his mistakes. Before reaching a decision, the Board frequently consults freshman housemasters, I.F.C. officers, I.D.C. officers, and representatives of the administration. In the interests of the individual, cases are usually heard in closed sessions, although the defendant may, of course, call witnesses in his defense. While all decisions are subject to administrative review, such action is rarely taken.

The Judicial Board also attempts to resolve questions which concern the interpretation of the M.S.G.A. Constitution. Finally, the nine-member body, appointed by the M.S.G.A. President and approved by the Senate, serves as the final court of appeals for decisions made in subsidiary branches of M.S.G.A.

WOMEN'S JUDICIAL BOARD

The Woman's College Judicial Board was organized as a branch of W.S.G.A. in 1949. Since that time, it has steadily assumed increasing importance in the affairs of the Woman's College. The Board's philosophy is that each student should be allowed as much freedom and responsibility as possible within the University community. This basic belief explains the emphasis placed on the Code of Campus Living and the continuous re-evaluation of the regulations of the Woman's College.

The thirteen voting members—one representative from each of the eleven women's dormitories, and the chairman and secretary elected by the student body—handle all major rules infractions and act as an appellate body for cases arising in the House Councils and the Traffic Court. This past year, the Board sent introductory letters to incoming freshmen, supervised a test covering material contained in the Handbook, and conducted a mock trial for the benefit of new students. The "Judi Board" also worked with its West campus counterpart to stimulate student interest in and desire for an honor code.

NURSES' JUDICIAL BOARD

The task of the Nurses' Judicial Board is to try infractions of the rules legislated by N.S.G.A. But in a broader sense, the Board is responsible for supervising all phases of student conduct, especially those matters which concern the welfare of Hanes House girls. The twelve-member body is the co-ordinating judiciary group of student government; integration is effected through the board's membership. The seats are occupied by the Chairman, the Chairmen of the Honor Council and Social Standards, the Recording Secretary of N.S.G.A., the vice-presidents of each class, and an additional representative from each of the four undergraduate levels.

The Judicial Board attempts, however, to be a legislative, rather than a strictly punitive organ. In addition, whereas the Judicial Board Chairman was formerly N.S.G.A. vice-president, the positions are now separate, although the Chairman remains a member of the Executive Council. This past year, Social Standards' offenses were removed from the Board's jurisdiction. These and other changes served to clarify the relationship between the student nurses and their government.

NURSES' HONOR BOARD

Lois Lundholm, Chairman

The Honor System has become a practical reality and a tradition in the School of Nursing. Its purpose is to secure the co-operation of the entire student body in maintaining honorable conduct in all areas of student life—academic, social, and professional. Each freshman formally becomes a member of the "System" by signing a pledge of acceptance in the presence of the student body. It is hoped that life under the Honor System will instill in each student a sense of integrity and loyalty, which will continue to serve her in the years after graduation.

The Honor Council, composed of a Chairman, the President of N.S.G.A., three representatives from each class, and three faculty advisors, tries breaches of the Honor Code. Recognizing that life under such a system demands a certain maturity, the Honor Council is primarily concerned with encouraging students to govern themselves responsibly.

MEN'S FRESHMAN ADVISORY COUNCIL

Established in 1957 as a committee of the YMCA, the Men's Freshman Advisory Council is composed of a chairman, three sub-chairmen, and seventy student advisors. Both the officers and advisors are selected after careful interviewing during the spring semester. The group's objective is, simply stated, to aid the new student. "Y-FAC's" arrive back on campus a week before the first day of classes, prepared to welcome and assist bewildered freshmen. They tote luggage, give advice on professors, explain the "situation" on East Campus, and supervise freshman placement tests and physical examinations, all with the thought of making it easy for the incoming class to adapt itself to almost every phase of college life. Finally, it is assumed that a "Y-Man" is not only an advisor, but a friend as well, perhaps the first friend a freshman makes.

Betsy Gwyne, Chairman

Arriving on East Campus for Orientation Week, freshman co-eds are anxious, apprehensive and perhaps a bit awed by the thought of being in college. The Women's Freshman Advisory Council, a group of experienced student advisors, helps each newcomer to feel that she "belongs" at Duke.

The forty-eight FAC's, selected in the spring from the rising junior and senior classes, were chosen on the basis of their understanding, sense of responsibility, and leadership ability. Training programs in the spring and early fall prepare each advisor to aid "her girls" in making a swift and easy adjustment to the whirl of activity that awaits them. The FAC's acquaint freshman women with the academic program, the Code of Campus Living, extra-curricular activities, the campus itself and the Durham community. The FAC's are a ready source of advice and sympathy throughout the school year and figure prominently in the successful launching of college careers.

NURSES' FRESHMAN ADVISORY COUNCIL

Ann Brenneman, Chairman

The members of the Nurses' Freshman Advisory Council return to Hanes House one week before classes begin in September, to welcome the new freshman class. Each FAC, a rising sophomore, helps orient her small group of freshmen to the University and the School of Nursing. Having replaced the N.S.G.A. orientation program in 1954, the Council attempts to acquaint the new class with the regulations and ideals of the Duke community and to establish healthy relations between freshmen and upperclassmen in the School of Nursing. During Orientation Week, the advisors carry out the plans which they have formulated during the summer session. There are tours, parties, large orientation classes, and small discussion groups led by individual FAC's. Freshmen, then, are thoroughly prepared for the N.S.G.A. Rules Test. Throughout the year, FAC's remain as friends and advisors to freshman student nurses.

ENGINEER'S GUIDANCE COUNCIL

Founded six years ago, the Engineer's Guidance Council has proved to be an invaluable aid to freshman engineering students. The Council has been especially helpful during the first few weeks of classes, when encouragement and assistance are appreciated by the newly-arrived engineers. The forty-two members of the Council are chosen each spring, on the basis of their academic record, maturity, and dependability. Stressing scholarship, the group offers review sessions in preparation for hour quizzes and provides individual tutoring for students having difficulty in "problem areas"—calculus, descriptive geometry, and physics.

This year, the functions of the Engineer's Guidance Council increased in scope and importance. Because of a change in the admissions procedure, engineers are now accepted into the University directly through the College of Engineering. In step with the times, the Council has attempted to instill in freshmen a sense of their unique position and an awareness of the duties, responsibilities, and challenges that await them.

COURT OF APPEALS

The Court of Appeals was formed six years ago as a supplement to the Judicial Board. Since that time, its responsibilities have increased; it now exercises original jurisdiction over cases involving violation of University parking and safety regulations, "quad-ball," student fiscal irresponsibility, and any other cases referred to it by the Office of the Dean of Men. In cases requiring disciplinary action, the Court attempts to guide rather than merely to punish the student. In addition, it decides all cases in which students and living groups appeal what they consider to be unfair parking tickets or damage assessments.

The Court is composed of five upperclassmen, appointed by the President of M.S.G.A. and confirmed by the Senate. Although decisions of the Court are subject to administrative review, the Court's decisions are, in fact, rarely reversed. The Court, then, offers an example of the very real power and potential of responsible student government.

TRADITIONS BOARD

The task of the Traditions Board is to help incoming freshmen appreciate the history and heritage of Duke. Its ultimate goal, aside from acquainting freshmen with the customs and ideals of the University, is to instill in these young men an early sense of direction and purpose.

The Board requires that freshmen receive and carefully read a history and background of Duke which it has prepared. During Orientation Week, the Board sponsors an assembly program to introduce freshmen to the University officials who will instruct and counsel them in the four years that lie ahead. At the conclusion of Freshman Orientation, each member of the new class must pass a written examination, covering the material he has been asked to study. The written examination was reinstituted this year, in place of a freshman essay.

James Ligon Clark, President

The Independent Dormitory Council was organized seven years ago to represent independent students on campus. An official branch of M.S.G.A., the Council has established itself as a sounding board for the thought and opinions of independent students. IDC is composed of the elected executive council, the appointed cabinet, the IDC Court, and the Council itself, composed of the presidents of the seven independent houses. Independent unity has resulted in the improvement of dormitory facilities and plans to improve independent living in the future.

This year, IDC has greatly expanded the range of independent activities. Cabin and cocktail parties, student-faculty discussions, and open houses were organized social diversions. The Council also sponsored intramural athletic teams, a homecoming display, and worked with M.S.G.A. to secure additional telephones. Greater co-operation among independents and increased interest and participation in dorm activities led to the re-christening of Few Quadrangle residences: Tabard, Canterbury, Buchanan, Taylor, and Mirecourt.

TOWN MEN'S CLUB

In thirteen years, the Town Men's Club has developed into an active campus organization. Through the support and interest of a group of Durham citizens, the club received a meeting-room off Page Auditorium. Here, the club plans its program, designed to make the twenty-eight members active participants in the intellectual and recreational events on campus.

Led by President Geoff Ward, the club this year made its mark in intramural sports and campus politics. The group also conducted a lively calendar of dinners, dances, and parties. In short, the club's efforts have been directed at providing members with the atmosphere and opportunities necessary for a rewarding college career.

CAMPUS CHEST

Until this year, the Campus Chest had been a committee of the Men's Student Government Association. The organization, the only official canvassing body on campus, is now supervised by the YMCA, and it has revamped its policies. The newly-defined objectives of the Campus Chest are: to raise an amount of money commensurate with the size and giving-power of the student body, to inform the student of how his money will be used and to welcome individual suggestions concerning the distribution of funds, and to create a sense of giving freely in the Judaeo-Christian tradition. Thus, through its fall fund-raising events and the Campus Chest drive held in February, the organization can awaken students to their responsibilities as members of the community, who may share their good fortune with those who are less fortunate.

CO-ORDINATE BOARD

The Co-ordinate Board, an important W.S.G.A. auxiliary, is, as its name implies, a "communications system" between faculty, administration, and students. Improved relations and beneficial exchange will, hopefully, result in greater harmony and understanding between these groups. The Board collects and reports student opinions, attitudes, ideas and criticisms. After sifting and studying the data gathered, the Board can make suggestions concerning matters which affect the student body, such as faculty classroom policies.

Members this year spent a great deal of time during semesters in seeing that pre-registration sessions proceeded smoothly; they also worked to improve library hours, conditions in the Union, exam schedules, and student employment. The Board also maintained a file of past final examinations in the library and wrote Pan-Hel rush letters to co-ed freshmen.

EAST CAMPUS SOCIAL STANDARDS

Social Standards, a special W.S.G.A. auxiliary, attempts to instill in co-eds a respect for those patterns and practices of behavior which are in keeping with the desires and traditions of the University. The Committee is composed of two representatives from each of the women's dormitories and three freshman women who serve as representatives-at-large. Besides stressing standards of good taste in dress, manners, and conduct, Social Standards acts as a planning committee for W.S.G.A. social functions throughout the year.

The Committee begins work in the summer with the mailing of "Design for a Duchess" to incoming co-eds. Another handy publication, the "Duke Pictorial Calendar," is available at Thanksgiving. Social Standards also sponsors the Christmas Banquet and the W.S.G.A.-Sandals Banquet. "Twilight Hours" concerts in the Sarah P. Duke Memorial Gardens and the coronation of the May Queen and the selection of her court to reign during Joe College round out the year's activities.

NURSES' SOCIAL STANDARDS

Since its organization with N.S.G.A., the Nurses' Social Standards Committee has attempted to maintain the personal values of student nurses in regard to their fellow students, school, and profession. Composed of two members elected from each class, and a chairman chosen by the entire student body of nurses, the Committee seeks, through its regulations, to encourage the formation of practical professional ethics.

During the past year, the Committee sponsored an orientation program for freshmen and sold Social Standards Calendars along with the East Campus Committee. In disciplinary matters, the Committee is now allowed to try its own cases, instead of delegating this responsibility to the Judicial Board.

STUDENT UNION

Article II of the Union Constitution reads: "The purpose of the Duke University Student Union shall be to stimulate, promote, and develop the social, recreational, cultural, educational, and spiritual activities of the students of Duke University. . . ." The Union is directed by the policy-making Board of Governors, composed of twelve members under the direction of Chairman Neil Williams. The Board of Chairmen, the heads of the seven major committees, executes Union policies. The bulk of the everyday work is handled by these same seven committees—Fine Arts, Social, Publicity, Educational Affairs, Special Services, Recreation, and Major Attractions.

Expressly designed to satisfy the general and special interests of the student body, the year's projects included bridge and golf tournaments, movies of away football games, a talk by Charles Vetter of the U.S. Information Agency, and the expansion of art exhibits to both the West Campus Alumni Lounge and the East Campus Library. Among the entertainers appearing at Duke under Union auspices were the Phakavali Dancers of Thailand, the Limelighters, Ferrante and Teicher, the road company of the Broadway musical, Carnival, and Helen Hayes and Maurice Evans in a delightful evening, Shakespeare Revisited. The Union also sponsored open houses after football games, the Homecoming Dance, and Candlelight Cabarets following basketball games. Student-Faculty Dinners helped to improve relations between professors and their students, while also facilitating "a meeting of the minds." Additional projects ranged from the S.U. Ride Bureau to baby-sitting services.

SYMPOSIUM COMMITTEE

The Symposium Committee first met in 1958-1959, at the invitation of the Chairman of the Student Union Educational Affairs Committee. Now in its fifth year, the Committee seeks to create a new awareness and knowledge of important questions on the Duke campus. The members of the Committee first select a topic which, in their estimation, deserves the consideration of the University Community and which promises to provide a stimulating and challenging intellectual experience. The next step is to invite speakers and to begin planning the format and presentation of the program.

The 1962 Symposium was held during November 11-14. The subject was "Dimensions of Defense." Mr. Allen Dulles, former head of the Central Intelligence Agency, delivered the keynote address—"New Challenges to National Security." The audience also heard addresses by distinguished professors: Dr. Thomas Schelling, Harvard, Dr. Kenneth E. Boulding, Michigan, and Dr. Charles E. Osgood, Illinois. Panel discussions and informal seminars followed each talk. Participating in these discussions were Dr. Arthur Larson, Director of the World Rule of Law Center, Dr. I. B. Holley of the History Department, and Dr. Waldo Beach of the Religion Department.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB

Although it became an official University organization only last year, the International Club has had a long history as an active body of students, representing nations from all corners of the globe. The club seeks to promote greater friendship between American and foreign students; memberships are available to everyone on campus. International Club sponsorship of dinners, dances, panel discussions, picnics, a soccer team, and the showing of foreign films provides the occasion for social and cultural exchange.

✦ The group works closely with the Foreign Student Committee of W.S.G.A. This committee has helped to organize fund-raising projects; the proceeds are devoted to the support and maintenance of a foreign student on East Campus.

NSA

NSA, a representative group of student governments, is interested in combining the ideas of student government leaders from all member colleges and universities which contribute to the solution of common problems and the fruitful exchange of ideas. The Association offers ideas, programs, and a voice for students on vital campus, state, national, and international issues. As a member school, Duke receives information on current campus problems and the policies of the organization's Student Congress.

On campus, the NSA committee has been concerned this year with distributing information to the various branches of student government; NSA information, for example, proved useful in the revision of the W.S.G.A. Constitution. The group sponsored a seminar on the Cuban crisis and introduced Alfred K. Lowenstein, a former NSA president and author of Brutal Mandate. The Association's other services include information on the Peace Corps and the Work, Travel, and Study Abroad program of the organization. The effectiveness of NSA on campus was increased through an intensive study by the W.S.G.A. Council regarding the structure and purposes of the Association and its contribution to Duke.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

Alpha Phi Omega is a national service fraternity, founded for the purpose of assembling college men in the spirit of the scout oath and law. The Duke chapter was founded in May, 1955, to render service to both the University and the Durham community and to provide an un-obtrusive but constructive link between the two.

The group works with local scouting organizations, assists in local charity drives, and provides Christmas gift baskets for needy families. These projects are financed with the proceeds of a rummage sale, held annually in May. Alpha Phi Omega's members also usher at basketball games in Duke Indoor Stadium.

DEBATE TEAM

The Debate Team is an outlet for those interested in classical forensics and a distinct and important part of the University's academic and public relations program. Participation in formal debate enables a student to become proficient in the methods of uncovering and analysing facts, of arriving at logical conclusions, and of presenting arguments effectively.

The team participates in intercollegiate tournaments and matches throughout the country, while tournaments are also held on the Duke campus. This year's team, led by President Tennie Williams, was faced with the unenviable task of matching the fine records of recent Duke teams in debate competition.

The Pre-Medical Society is a valuable aid for the undergraduate planning to make a career of medicine. Founded in 1937, the Society brings the future doctor into closer contact with members and phases of the medical profession. A program of speakers, tours, and advice acquaints the student with the opportunities, as well as the duties and obligations which await the practicing physician. Undergraduate experience can thus prepare the prospective medical student to cope with future obstacles and problems.

Encouraged to observe actual operations and doctors' rounds in Duke Hospital, the student is also mailed a copy of Caduceus, the pre-med monthly devoted to news of progress within the profession and individual preparation for medical school. Students are also urged to spend some time with medical students in labs, classes, and conferences. The Order of Hippocrates, the Society's scholastic honory, initiates new members annually, while the Advisory Council offers advice and tutoring to freshman members.

BENCH AND BAR

For the past thirty years, the Duke Bench and Bar Society has offered advice to students preparing for a career in law. Making use of films, lectures, and mock trials, the Society seeks to familiarize its members with various phases of the legal profession.

The 1962-1963 Society, with a total membership of fifty-one, held monthly meetings. The major project was a series of lectures; the speakers included Dean Latty of the Duke Law School, Dean Weathers of the Wake Forest Law School, and several representatives from national law firms. This personal association with notable members of the legal profession enabled the Society's members to have a better grasp and understanding of the opportunities and pitfalls that await them.

IEEE

James Hamilton, President

On January 1, 1963, the American Institute of Electrical Engineers (AIEE) and the Institute of Radio Engineers (IRE) merged to form the world's largest technical organization. The merger of these two electrical engineering associations was reflected on the student level, at colleges and universities across the nation, by the combining of the student branches of the two parent groups into one IEEE student branch. The merger marks the start of a new era in the progress of the engineering profession toward higher standards of excellence.

Composed of more than forty members from all engineering classes, the Duke branch of the IEEE enjoyed an outstanding year. Heading the schedule of monthly events were speakers of the caliber of Louis Pensak, Visiting Associate Professor of Electrical Engineering on leave from RCA's Princeton laboratories and Director of the Martin Company's Nuclear Power Division, who spoke at a meeting held during National Engineer's Week in February. The chapter was also host to the annual fall meeting of the North Carolina Section of the AIEE in November and sponsored a panel discussion in December entitled "After Graduation—What?" The student branch at Duke is looking forward to the years ahead under its new name.

A.S.C.E

The American Society of Civil Engineers introduces its members to many of the problems they will encounter upon graduation. Specifically, the Society is devoted to professional ideals and the practical application of knowledge in the field of civil engineering. The local chapter, founded in 1933, enables members to go beyond the classroom by having them meet engineers from North Carolina and the Mid-Atlantic states.

This past year, the thirty-five member group went on a field-trip to the Bethlehem Steel plant at Sparrows Point, Fort Belvoir, Virginia. To supplement the excursion, professional engineers presented lectures and films on special phases of civil engineering. The Society also sponsored a project, which was displayed in the annual Engineer's Show.

ASME

The purpose of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers is to help mechanical engineering students gain some insight into the scientific and industrial activities of their chosen profession. In preparing the student for a career in mechanical engineering, the Society holds monthly meetings and sponsors speakers who have a background in areas related to mechanical engineering.

In addition to offering field-trips to local industrial concerns, the local ASME chapter also stimulates interest in student projects and essays. In April, the Duke chapter was host to the Regional ASME Conference, which attracted delegates from schools throughout the Southeast for conferences, seminars, addresses, and an essay contest.

An integral part of West Campus life, the YMCA is one of the most active and comprehensive student organizations. It is also the largest voluntary organization at Duke. The main objective of the "Y" is to promote true understanding of the Christian ideal of service and to carry this concept into all areas of life. The "Y" also promotes social service, on campus and in the Durham community, personal communication between "Y" members and the various groups within the organization, and social action whenever it is deemed necessary.

In 1962-1963, the "Y" organized several off-campus seminars and "Quick-Action" study-groups on campus. The group also organized another successful Y-FAC program of freshman orientation, published the Handbook and Student Director, and furnished ushers for Sunday morning services in the Chapel. The Dad's Day program brought many fathers to the University and introduced them to campus life. Social work with the Edgemont Community Center was continued, and the "Y" also included Burner State Hospital and the Lakewood Boys' Club on the list of groups benefiting from their services.

YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

Anne Curry, President

Open to women of all faiths, the Young Women's Christian Association is chiefly concerned with helping each member to build for herself a "full and creative life." With a large majority of East Campus co-eds actively enrolled in its program, the YWCA seeks to broaden and develop knowledge, character, and achievement by offering a variety of stimulating educational, social, and service activities. This past year, hoping to achieve greater flexibility, the "Y" directed campus-oriented activities in each house and through individual programs, rather than by means of the traditional committee structure.

The twenty-nine member "Y" Cabinet, along with a parallel Freshman "Y" organization, focused its attention on special areas—Human Relations, Arts, Campus and World Affairs, Religious Concern, and Social Action. The busy schedule included work at the Edgemont Center, Wright Refuge, Duke and VA Hospitals, and the Burner Mental Hospital. The goal of communication and cooperation among students was reached through formal and informal discussion groups and seminar trips dealt with special interests and problems.

RELIGIOUS LIFE

Integrating the academic and religious aspects of University life, the Religious Life Staff stimulates a "religious" atmosphere on campus. The Staff consists of the Chaplain to the University, the Associate Directors of Religious Life for both East and West campuses, and the chaplains of the various denominational groups. Religious ideals are promoted through non-denominational chapel services and the activities of the student centers—service projects, social activities, and discussion and seminar groups. Inter-action among the denominational groups, as co-ordinated by the Religious Council, is essential to the spiritual climate.

The programs of the Staff and of the separate student groups are designed to encourage the undergraduate to understand and to interpret his religious development within the context of campus life. This approach is emphasized by inter-denominational groups, the Special Observances Committee, the Inter-faith Varsity Fellowship, and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. These organizations sponsor exchange programs which encourage inter-racial and intercollegiate understanding. A dynamic spirit of religious interest, in combination with academic pursuits, is thus fostered by the Religious Life Staff. The Duke Chapel, numbered first on maps of the campus, is physically and spiritually the central building of the University. As it dominates the landscape, it symbolizes the values upon which Duke is founded.

RELIGIOUS COUNCIL

The University Religious Council is an executive body, which governs the various denominational groups on campus. The Council's program is inter-denominational in scope, stressing the real and relevant benefits of religious service and spiritual experience. The University Chaplain, the Reverend Howard Wilkinson, directs the Council, which is composed of students, the presidents and advisors of the denominational student centers, and members of the faculty and administration. The Council implements its program through committees and through the dedicated efforts of individual members.

The Edgemont Community Center is one project receiving the Council's attention. Members of the Duke community are familiar with the work done at the Center and attempt to further the essential work done there. A scholarship program set up by the Council enables Christians of foreign birth to study at the University. The group also invites eminent theologians, philosophers, and artists to visit the campus. The Council also publishes the booklet "Religious Life," which describes the activities of "Y" groups and opportunities for individuals who wish to serve.

CHAPEL CHOIR

The University Chapel Choir, the largest and most active choral group on campus, is comprised of about 75 singers, each of whom is active in at least one other campus singing group. The Choir provides appropriate music during the Service of Worship each Sunday morning in Duke Chapel. In addition, the Choir each year performs two major sacred works for the Sunday afternoon concert series in the Chapel. Traditionally, the Christmas portion of Handel's "The Messiah" is one of the annual offerings. It is performed on two successive Sundays in December and attracts large audiences. The other major choral work is performed in early May. The spring selection varies from year to year; this year, the work chosen was Gabriel Faure's "Requiem."

In order to prepare two anthems for each Sunday and to rehearse the two major chorales, practice sessions are planned so that the singers may move quickly and smoothly through the music. At a typical Wednesday evening rehearsal, two new anthems are introduced for performance in four weeks, four anthems previously rehearsed are gone over for accuracy of rhythm, pitch, and other technical considerations for performance in two or three weeks, and two anthems are polished for the coming Sunday's performance. The time remaining in the ninety-minute rehearsal is devoted to the major work.

CHANCEL SINGERS

Some forty upperclassmen and graduate students make up the Chancel Singers, an advanced singing group which meets for one hour each week in the Woman's College Auditorium. All of the members have had considerable experience in choral work and enjoy the opportunity of singing in an advanced repertoire group. Public performances are incidental; the singers simply invite an audience to listen in at their weekly meetings and to share their enthusiasm for the music they sing. It is at these weekly sessions that the singers are challenged to realize their talents. Anyone interested must be present—and even sing—at one of these meetings to appreciate the meaning of musicianship.

RELIGIOUS GROUPS

Religion is an integral part of the University heritage and a pivotal point in Duke's present educational philosophy. Spiritual goals are, in part, realized through the work of the various denominational student organizations. Combining the activities of academic and religious life, each group seeks to aid the student to mature and develop—secure in a strong, active, and personally meaningful faith. There is a whirl of activity at the student centers: study groups, plays, sports events, dinners, and discussion meetings—together with regular religious services—enable these organizations to be influential and significant in the lives of students and faculty alike.

The Baptist, Catholic, Christian Science, Episcopal, Jewish, Lutheran, Methodist, Presbyterian, Quaker, and Unitarian faiths are represented at Duke by denominational groups. The University Religious Council co-ordinates the activities of these groups and promotes a harmonious realization of common goals.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB

The sixty-voice Men's Glee Club, now in its seventy-seventh year, is committed to a diverse musical program. The Club's repertoire ranges from classical selections, including operatic pieces, and contemporary works of a semi-classical bent to Broadway show-tunes and Negro spirituals. Directed by "P.Y.," Professor Paul Young, and Mr. James Young, who joined the organization this year as assistant to Professor Young and accompanist, the Club made its 1962-1963 debut during Freshman Orientation Week. During the fall, the group also presented an annual Dad's Day Concert, in conjunction with Dad's Day Weekend. As fall turned to winter, the Club appeared at the North Carolina Press Association Conference and at Campbell College.

The major home appearance of the year was a spring concert in Page Auditorium. This was followed by the event which members look forward to, the annual tour during the spring recess. This year, the singers went on an extended junket through the North, performing in Richmond, Philadelphia, and New York. The entire West Campus student body is eligible for membership in the Men's Glee Club. Members are selected in auditions at the beginning of the fall semester.

The patience and dedication of a master.

WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB

Auditions for the Women's Glee Club are held at the beginning of each semester. Girls from the Woman's College and the School of Nursing who pass the voice trials are then eligible for Glee Club membership. The approximately one hundred voices rehearse twice weekly, under the direction of Dr. Paul Young. In the fall, the girls joined with the Men's Glee Club to present the annual Dad's Day Concert. The spring concert, another yearly feature, was followed by a tour of colleges and towns in North Carolina and Virginia.

The Women's Chorus, the freshman version of the Glee Club, is a separate group of girls who will eventually join the senior vocal society. The combined Men's and Women's Choruses presented a December Christmas Pageant in the University Chapel. A spring concert of sacred and secular music also helped to develop and refine the choral abilities of these young women. Both the Women's Glee Club and the Women's Chorus prepare girls for membership in the Chapel Choir, while fostering an appreciation and enjoyment of group singing.

CONCERT BAND

The repertoire of the Duke University Concert Band has been extended to include all types of band music, ranging from classical symphonies to medleys of popular favorites. The Sarah P. Duke Memorial Gardens were a memorable natural setting for the Band's "Twilight Hours" Concerts in the fall and spring. After a formal winter concert in Page Auditorium, the group went on tour; they returned to the campus to participate in the annual Founder's Day ceremonies and then concluded the season by enjoying a week end at Myrtle Beach.

Established in 1923, the Concert Band has steadily grown in size to its present strength of seventy members. Under the direction of Dr. Paul Bryan, a new emphasis has been placed on high standards and the quality of the music performed. Additional stress has been laid on the educational experience of the individual members.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

The Duke Symphony Orchestra attracts its members from both the University and the surrounding communities. The 85-piece group draws together students and faculty, as well as citizens of Durham, Raleigh, Chapel Hill, Burlington, and Winston-Salem. The sixteen-year development of the Orchestra under Professor Bone's leadership has brought the Duke Symphony to a fuller realization of its goal: "amateur music-making at the highest possible level."

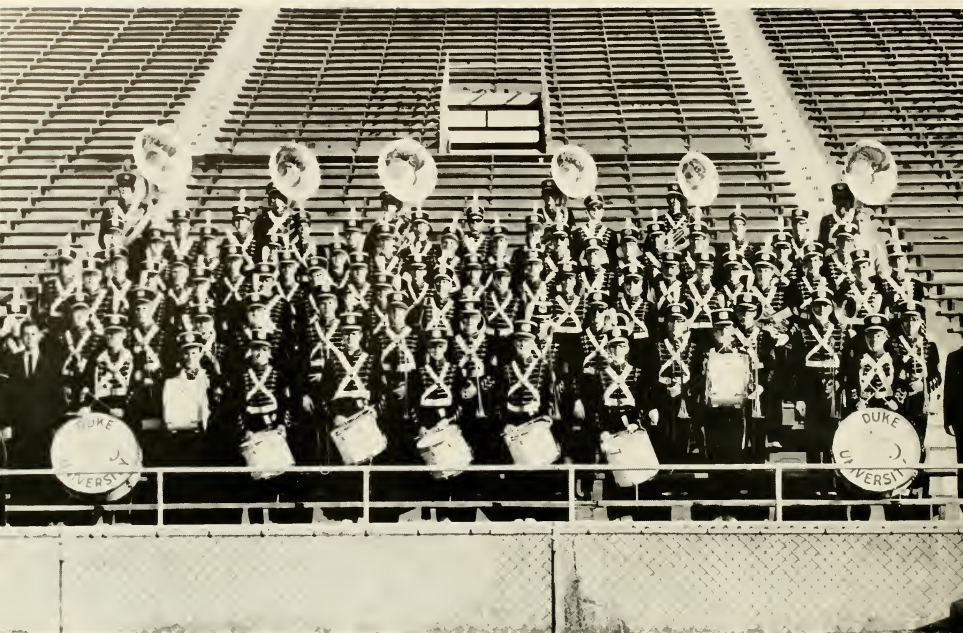

The past year was an outstanding success. The fine company of musicians attracted a capacity audience to its three concerts. Visiting Artist Joseph Pepper served as Concertmaster and was introduced to the public as soloist in the Brahms Violin Concerto at the November Concert. Susan Star, second-place winner of the 1962 Tchaikovsky competition in Moscow, and Helen Boatwright, nationally known soprano, were featured soloists in the March and May Concerts. The Orchestra performed works by Beethoven, Rimsky-Korsakov, DeFalla, Bach, Robert Ward and Louis Mennini. The Mennini Symphony was commissioned by Duke University and given its premiere at the March Concert.

MARCHING BAND

For over fifty years, the Duke University Marching Band has created a sense of pride and school spirit in Blue Devil cheering sections. With an extraordinarily simple yet exalted purpose—"Give 'em Hell, Duke"—the band provides music and enthusiastic, even delirious cheering at every home game and selected road contests each year. The longest jaunt of the 1962 season took the DUMB to the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Florida, to demonstrate their high-stepping antics before a large and appreciative crowd.

The band drills and rehearses several times each week, under the direction of Mr. James Henry. Don Ferrell, President and Drum Major, leads the eighty-five band members in student-written half-time shows—take-offs on a variety of amusing or controversial subjects. During football intermissions this year, the DUMB presented parodies of Mitch Miller, Peanuts, Ben Casey, and the head of the "First Family" himself.

DUKE AMBASSADORS

For the past thirty years, the Ambassadors have featured tasteful entertainment in the form of good music for listening and dancing. Originally organized by Sonny Burke, the band has, over the years, played in concerts and at dances throughout the Carolinas and Virginia. Under the sponsorship of the U.S. Department of Defense, the group has made good-will tours to such far-away, exotic places as the Canal Zone, the Azores, Bermuda, and Iceland.

Many Ambassador alumni have gone on to musical fame in big-name orchestras—Ray McKinley, Glenn Miller, Gene Krupa, and Ray Anthony. As a follow-up to their first record release, "Beelzebub's Big Band," the Ambassadors may cut another disc, perhaps a joint-effort with the Harlequins.

THE HARLEQUINS

The Harlequins first banded together in the spring of 1961. They were then, and still are, a group of men who simply like to sing. Their popular repertoire centers on a variety of modern harmonies and dressed-up barbershop melodies, delivered in a unique and infectious style. The "Quins" have entertained at many campus-oriented parties and functions, including formal banquets and fraternity "treas." Their concert-tours often feature trips to neighboring girls' schools—Mary Washington, Sweetbriar, Carolina, etc., etc. Occasional radio and television appearances have also added to the group's reputation. This past year, the Harlequins played a regular weekly engagement at the "King's Arms," a local gathering-place featuring food, beer, and, of course, outstanding entertainment. Immediate plans call for another record album or a trip to Bermuda for sun, suds, and song.

RADIO COUNCIL

The Radio Council has, since 1948, supervised the functions of the Duke Broadcasting System. The Council directs the basic policies of WDBS, from the format itself—what to send out on the air—to the budget and expenditures of the student station—how much to spend in the process.

Immediate problems are usually handled by the station managers, who are members of the Council. The remainder of the Council is composed of student representatives from East, West, Hanes House, and the College of Engineering; the Dean of Men and the Dean of Women; and a faculty advisor. At its annual May banquet, the organization presented awards to WDBS personnel, who displayed outstanding ability and service.

ENGINEERS' RADIO ASSOCIATION

Beginning in the early 1930's, the Engineers' Radio Association has grown to be a prominent organization in local amateur radio. The objectives of the Association are the advancement of the theory and practice of amateur radio telegraphy and telephony. The facilities of the Association are used to teach novice operators, to send messages, and to conduct experiments in electronics. The Association also offers the "Confederate States of America Centennial Award," presented to any amateur who communicates with each of the Confederate States during the Civil War Centennial, 1961-1965.

RADIO STATION WDBS

"Broadcasting in the public interest, convenience, and necessity;" this has been the keynote for WDBS this year. The station played an increasingly important role in campus life and concentrated in programming for the campus community. New transmitters were installed and the signal is the best in the fourteen-year history of WDBS. Listener response has justified the extensive experimentation and testing.

The station again broadcast Duke basketball and baseball. Increased sports coverage resulted in freshman basketball games being carried by WDBS. Leading student organizations—MSGA, WSGA, and the IFC—also made use of the station's facilities; their regularly scheduled shows were part of the increased emphasis on campus news and views. WDBS was the only station in the area to cover the opening ceremonies of the Lincoln Center. Moreover, during the Cuban Crisis, the station was on the air around-the-clock to relay the latest happenings and developments. The staff also maintained a bulletin board and score-sheet in the Union Lobby.

The Duke Broadcasting System is one of the few collegiate stations to broadcast twenty-four hours a day. WDBS and Station Manager Bud Bell are to be complimented for diverse and quality-conscious programming and for maintaining the number-one college station in the Southeast.

PUBLICATIONS BOARD

Roger Marshall, Chairman

The Publications Board is made up of fifteen voting members, representing the administration and faculty, East and West campuses, the College of Engineering, and the School of Nursing. The editors and business managers of the various student publications are ex-officio members. The purpose of the organization is to maintain certain prescribed standards of journalism on "Pub Row," where the student publications are housed, and to supervise commercial advertising in each publication. The Board is not responsible for censoring student efforts, nor for ending freedom of the press.

The Board receives and evaluates progress reports submitted by the various publications and aids in solving problems which arise in the course of the year. In the spring, the Board reviews candidates' petitions for the positions of editor and business manager of the Archives, CHANICLEER, Chronicle, Peer, and Playbill. After having interviewed each candidate separately, the Board decides who will hold office the following fall.

THE ARCHIVE

The Archive was founded in 1887 and is distinguished as the oldest collegiate magazine in the South. Published quarterly, the magazine is a vehicle for creative individuals to express themselves. In this respect, the Archive encourages the latent left-brain at Duke and draws most of its material from University undergraduates and faculty members. Editor Jim Carpenter and his assistants, Sherry Sitton and George Young, directed the publication of poetry, fiction, essays, reviews, and artwork.

Activity was the keynote for 1962-63. Literary workshops were offered, under the direction of poet Fred Chappell and novelist Reynolds Price. To promote the anthology Under 25, edited by Professor William Blackburn, the group conducted a publicity campaign and a banquet for returning authors featured in the book. The staff also sponsored the annual freshman writing contest and hoped to introduce another anthology, Campus Poets. Another highlight was the yearly "Festival of Literature" in the spring, which featured the reading and discussion of submitted works.

PLAYBILL

Consolidating the purchase and printing of programs for campus presentations, the Playbill provides Duke audiences with critical reviews, program notes, and brief biographical sketches. While covering major University attractions—the productions of the Duke Players and Hoof 'n' Horn, Glee Club concerts, and the Artists' Series—the Playbill staff furnishes original reviews. Each issue bears a unique and attractive cover and features a distinctive advertising format. This Broadway-flavored program, published fourteen times annually, successfully captures the mood of each performance.

In addition to its coverage of feature attractions in Page Auditorium and the Indoor Stadium, the magazine staff also publishes an IFC Handbook. This pamphlet is distributed to all West Campus freshmen just prior to Formal Rush; it contains all the pertinent facts and figures relating to the eighteen Greek chapters on campus.

PEER

Come September, and the recusant "usual gang of idiots" returned for another go at publishing what is soberly termed "the official feature magazine of Duke University." There were problems, though: like an AWOL editor, administration frowns, and pub-row neighbors, notably "The Tower of Campus Thought and Action." Tower of what? Well, the Chronicle was dispatched posthaste, via a 20-0 whitewash in the second annual "Booze Bowl."

Under the tutelage of Jerry Sawyers, the staff then turned to the dour task of rescuing Peer from the rocky shoals of sagging circulation with a pepped-up sales pitch. Yes, Virginia, the ogres in Allen Building must be pacified. So usually off-beat Peer took on all the trappings of The Ladies Home Journal . . . vintage 1901. Our conscientious, imaginative, and entertaining buffs took academic freedom to heart, with five rollicking issues of effervescent mirth (all in good taste, mind you) in fiction, verse, and cartoons or, more properly, Rorschach ink-blots. And the best of East and Hanes were given headline coverage in each edition. ". . . where there's life, there's Peer!"

THE CHRONICLE

The Duke Chronicle—the “Tower of Campus Thought and Action”—is one of the University’s oldest and most active extra-curriculars. The Chronicle was founded on December 19, 1905. Since that time, it has served to keep the University Community informed of happenings on campus and to provide students with practical experience in both journalism and management.

The editorial staff, headed this year by Edward S. Rickards, Jr., is responsible for news, features, sports, editorials, and commentaries. The business staff, led by Thomas M. Morgan, is concerned with financing, advertising, and circulation.

The Chronicle continued its twice-weekly publication schedule this year, appearing on Tuesdays and Fridays. The paper scored a “scoop” in November, appearing with a special eight-page edition, just one hour after the Board of Trustees elected Dr. Douglas M. Knight to succeed Dr. Deryl Hart as President of the University.

THE CHANTICLEER

As he thumbs through these pages, the perceptive reader may notice that the CHANTICLEER does look different. The yearbook's brain-trust spent a long, hot summer thinking. This first problem overcome, the remaining obstacle in the way of publication was recruiting. But rush this year was especially fruitful. The freshmen and upperclassmen who joined the staff proved to be hard-working and conscientious. In fact, the routine of typing, proof-reading, re-typing, filing, re-typing, served to buoy spirits, and production actually proceeded ahead of schedule.

What of the innovations? Literate staff-writers whipped up a thoughtful and provocative prologue; the result was a penetrating view of life at both ends of Myrtle, now Campus Drive. The section devoted to the faculty and administration included a letter from Dr. Hart and a student salute to classroom favorites. Sports coverage was enhanced through photographic studies and new ideas in lay-out. Both the Greek Life and Sports sections were set off by special introductory pages. And color—color everywhere: action-shots, stills, pastiches capturing the atmosphere that is Duke. The book is held together by glue and stitching and a few hints at a theme: the old and the new, which is representative of the University. We hope you like it!

DUKENGINEER

From its genesis as a mimeographed paper to its present form as a printed magazine, the DukEngineer has represented the technical ability and vocational enthusiasm of student engineers. First published in 1940, the magazine now appears four times during the academic year and enjoys a circulation of 1,000 copies. It is generally recognized as one of the top engineering journals in the nation.

The magazine features articles of general interest and importance in civil, electrical, and mechanical engineering. The semi-technical literature published deals with projects, research, and new developments in these fields. Staff members are chosen each year during the spring semester.

SPORTS CAR CLUB

Four years old, the Sports Car Club is an outlet for the energy and abilities of enthusiastic racers. The group holds monthly meetings, featuring movies of major sports car races on the world's toughest courses, and, in addition, sponsors seven racing events of its own. Four gymkhanas—in September, October, March, and May—challenge driving skills, knowledge, and co-ordination. Three rallies—in November, February, and April—provide a different thrill and experience. Instructed to maintain a certain average speed over a pre-determined route, drivers must travel a difficult course in a specified time. Club members have, finally, extended their activities beyond the Durham area. The part-time drivers, mechanics, and course officials participate in regional and national races and are represented in the Sports Car Club of America.

WOMAN'S RECREATION ASSOCIATION

The Woman's Recreation Association, which represents all students in the Woman's College and the School of Nursing, offers varied recreational opportunities for each co-ed. In co-operation with the Woman's Physical Education Department, the group sponsors both individual and team sports each semester. Tournaments are held in badminton, table tennis, volleyball, basketball, bowling, and archery. Points are awarded to each individual and to each dormitory for participation and certificates and trophies are awarded at the Spring Honors Assembly to those who have accumulated a specified number of points.

W.R.A. sponsors a Sports Day each semester with colleges and high schools in North Carolina. The program includes volleyball and tennis tournaments, and tennis and swimming demonstrations. The annual Freshman Picnic during Orientation Week acquaints freshmen with the intramural program and features a short skit by W.R.A. members. Special interest groups under the auspices of W.R.A. are Pegasus, Nereidian, Terpsichorean, and Tennis Club, which offer the pleasures of horseback riding, synchronized swimming, modern dance, and tennis.

Rebecca Mills, President

NEREIDIAN

Under the auspices of the WRA and the East Campus Department of Physical Education, the Nereidian Club is a group of girls who together develop their skills in the art of swimming and in creative aquatic expression. The special interest group promotes interest in rhythmic swimming, diving, and aquatic stunts. The annual spring show, held in early March, features the year's achievements in grace and form. In preparing for the program, the twenty-five members of the club—drawn from both East Campus and Hanes House—work on individual and group techniques at weekly meetings and practice sessions. The girls also select their own theme, colorful costumes, and musical accompaniment for the show. To conclude the year, the Nereids presented a synchronized swim meet with Queens College in April.

PEGASUS

Now an auxiliary of the Woman's Recreation Association, Pegasus enables students interested in riding to improve their ability on horseback and to enjoy themselves while learning. Pegasus members are selected after try-outs, held each year in the early spring. Any equestrienne from East Campus or Hanes House may try out. While girls with varied backgrounds and experience in riding are chosen, the American Saddle style is emphasized. The club meets for weekly rides to develop the skills of its members. Towards the close of the academic year, the club presents its annual horse show, with the aid and cooperation of Miss Betty Lou Brunson and Pine Knoll Stables.

TERPSICHOREAN

Terpsichorean, the University modern dance club, tries to develop in its members the ability to perform complicated techniques in choreography and to promote an interest in and appreciation for modern dance. Club members, selected twice each year in tryouts, are chosen on the basis of coordination, expression through movement, and enthusiasm for the club's purposes. Weekly practice sessions concentrate on learning basic technical movements as well as advanced dancing theory.

Two Terpsichorean dance concerts highlighted the year's activities. A Christmas concert, given in conjunction with the Duke Players, featured pre-classical or medieval dances. An original spring concert, "Americana," presented original compositions on themes drawn from American history, running the gamut from the Salem witch trials to the present-day "dilemma" of modern man. The club also worked with the Methodist Student Center and the Y.W.C.A., both on and off-campus. Lectures—with demonstrations—were included in the various programs.

HOOF 'N' HORN

Now in its twenty-seventh year, Hoof 'n' Horn has the distinction of being the oldest musical comedy organization in the South. Although once upon a time it produced only student-written shows, the scarcity of suitable material led to the presentation of professional shows. The first of these—

Hoof 'n' Horn's Valkyrie . . .

BYE BYE BIRDIE's Producer, Clay Hollister, and Director, Betsy Rowland.

Anything Goes—was staged in 1952. The change to Broadway and off-Broadway productions seems to have been successful. Last year's production of Once Upon a Mattress, drew SRO audiences and rave reviews.

The purposes of Hoof 'n' Horn are to cultivate musical comedy talents, to increase student knowledge of the theater in general and, of course, to entertain. Membership is open to all, once a student has participated in a production, whether backstage or "up front," he is officially a member. This year's presentations—the Homecoming Show and the Joe College extravaganza—were directed by President Betsy Rowland and Vice-President Dick Parks.

DUKE PLAYERS

Led by President Dick Parks, the Players this year succeeded in bringing some of the aura and magic of the theater to Duke. Their unannounced intention was to foster an appreciation of the dramatic arts by staging first-rate productions for the University community. The group thus worked to bring to life "educational theater" in the best sense.

The plays presented during the 1962-1963 season varied in style and scope. Richard II was selected from the Shakespearean catalogue. The history play was presented in October and was warmly received by students enrolled in English literature courses. Turning to musical comedy, the Players presented a Broadway hit, The Fantasticks, for a delightful and very successful December production. In the spring, the versatile group tried their hand at serious modern drama. Eugene O'Neill's challenging Desire Under the Elms completed another year of Page Auditorium programs.

SHOE 'N' SLIPPER

Twice each year, the Shoe 'n' Slipper Club alleviates the boredom and frustration of the constant grind with two gala week ends—"Shoe 'n' Slipper" and "Joe College." During the fall, as October faded into November, the campus rocked to the swinging notes of Ray Charles, his orchestra, and the Raylets. Joe College, brave lad, ushered in spring amidst a burst of float-building and fun, a parade and picnics—virtually a five-day frolic of hot-blooded activity. During the course of the festivities, Mr. Joe College and the fair May Queen were presented to the student body.

Chartered in 1949, the Shoe 'n' Slipper Club originally adhered to a policy of selling bids to freshman men, thus entitling the youngsters to four years of glad times. This year, however, the bid-membership was dropped, and tickets were sold on an open, campus-wide, first-come, first-serve basis. The purpose of the organization remains unchanged, namely, to provide quality popular entertainment for the entire student body.

AFROTC

The Duke AFROTC unit prepares students for active and reserve officer duty in the United States Air Force. In addition to their regular academic course-load, cadets are required to take several special AFROTC subjects. The basic air science program is open to all men meeting the AFROTC requirements, but passing the Advanced Selection Board is a prerequisite to the advanced level of training. Monday afternoon Leadership Laboratories are designed to supplement the regular classes in training cadets to assume command positions. Each cadet has the opportunity to advance from the rank of cadet airman to cadet officer; cadet officers lead the regiment.

The Department of the Air Force sponsors several extra-curricular activities, including the Precision Drill Team, the Rifle Team, MARS amateur radio station, and Contact, the corps newspaper. Cadets are urged to participate in one or more of these activities. The Duke Air Force Club sponsors a calendar of parties and picnics, open to all cadets. The annual social highlight is the Military Ball, held in the spring for the benefit of Navy and Air Force ROTC personnel. The unit also maintains a chapter of the Arnold Air Society, the national AFROTC honorary.

NROTC

Since 1941, the University has actively co-operated with the Department of the Navy in training future officers of the Navy and Marine Corps. The NROTC program, offering a four-year course in naval science, leads to commission as an ensign in the Navy or as a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps.

Summer cruises play an important part in officer training; aboard ship, the prospective officer becomes acquainted with life at sea, and he is given a chance to apply the nautical knowledge he has gained in the classroom. A tour of duty with the active fleet usually occurs between the junior and senior years. Instead of a cruise, the officer candidate may elect to take his summer training at Quantico, Virginia.

The local NROTC Unit includes the Regimental Band, Drill Team, Rifle Team, and a Unit newsletter, the Dolphin. In addition, a Flight Indoctrination Program leading to a career in naval aviation is available to qualified midshipmen. The Duke NROTC Unit has a permanent staff of seven Navy and Marine officers, as well as six senior enlisted men. All participants in the program are members of the Midshipmen Regiment.

SEMPER FIDELIS

The society which bears the Marine Corps motto, "Semper Fidelis," seeks to create closer ties among those who have been or will be associated with the United States Marine Corps. It prepares Marine Option ROTC students for Marine officer candidacy and for future service in the Corps. The Duke Beta Chapter of Semper Fidelis was founded in 1952 by students from Duke and the University of North Carolina. It was subsequently chartered and is now an active unit in the Marine ROTC program, offered at more than fifty colleges and universities throughout the country. The activities of the Society include the annual Marine Birthday Ball in November and field trips to Marine Recruiting Offices in the area.

PHI BETA KAPPA

Phi Beta Kappa, founded on December 5, 1776, at the College of William and Mary, is the oldest honorary scholastic society in the United States. There are now 170 local chapters. The Duke chapter was chartered in 1919. Phi Beta Kappa's emphasis is on the liberal arts and sciences, and it leaves to other organizations the recognition of excellence in other fields. To be considered for election, undergraduate students must normally have a 3.30 quality-point average for six semesters while earning a minimum of 90 semester hours. Elections are made in October, February, and during Commencement Week. At the Commencement meeting a limited number of Ph.D. candidates are also elected. Officers of the Duke chapter for 1961-62 were Dr. Charles R. Vail, President; Dr. Louis J. Budd, Vice President; Dr. William F. Stinespring, Secretary-Treasurer; and Dr. Louise Hall and Dr. J. Harris Proctor, Members of the Executive Committee.

WHO'S WHO

Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities is a directory which recognizes seniors who have served their schools, while compiling excellent records in academics and in extra-curricular activities. In 1962-1963, forty-nine of the University's graduating campus leaders were selected to join the ranks of the "collegiate aristocracy." Who's Who also offers to its members a student placement service, providing recommendations and counseling for the job or graduate study applicant.

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

Omicron Delta Kappa, founded at Duke in 1926, is the national honorary for senior men who have excelled in leadership, character, and service to the University. The purpose of the organization is to recognize those who have distinguished themselves in campus activities and whose efforts have inspired others to strive for similar attainments. As a group, ODK attempts to bring together men from all phases of collegiate life in order to help mold the sentiments of the student body on questions of both local and national interest. Some of the many areas represented by recent members include scholarship, athletics, student government, social and religious affairs, publications, speech, music, and drama.

PHI KAPPA DELTA

Bi-monthly Sunday evening meetings for dinner and discussion form the basic program of the senior women's honorary, Phi Kappa Delta. Campus problems, as well as matters of interest and mutual concern, are brought up by members, with the aim of improving co-operation between students and administration and furthering the unity and spirit of the campus community. Phi Kappa Delta was founded at Duke in 1944, as the sister fraternity to Omicron Delta Kappa. The honorary recognizes achievement in leadership, scholarship, extra-curricular activities, and service to the University. Girls who have proved themselves outstanding in these fields are tapped for membership.

SANDALS

Founded in the 1930's, Sandals recognizes twenty rising sophomore girls who meet the group's high standards of personal character, attitude, leadership potential, willingness to co-operate with others, intellectual curiosity, and service to the University. These outstanding girls serve the Duke community in many ways: by assisting during Orientation Week and at Homecoming, by conducting campus tours for prospective students, and by volunteering as writers of pay-day bills for the WSGA Treasurer. Sandals members also usher at WSGA assemblies.

Sandals sponsors a mid-winter tea for the Trustees of the University, numerous banquets, and a fall dance, in conjunction with Beta Omega Sigma, the group's West Campus counterpart. The organization also features regular seminars, speakers, and topical discussions treating a wide variety of subjects and areas of interest. The proceeds from the girls' fund-raising projects are incorporated in the Sandals Scholarship, awarded each year to an outstanding rising sophomore co-ed.

BETA OMEGA SIGMA

Each spring, Beta Omega Sigma taps men from the ranks of the rising sophomore class who have excelled in scholarship, leadership, and service. Founded in 1917 to meet the need for recognition of leadership potential, BOS has taken on the task of promoting student participation in campus affairs. BOS members act as guides during Homecoming, conduct the election and coronation of the Homecoming Queen, and sponsor a car wash with Sandals. With the help and support of the faculty members who are tapped each year, Beta Omega Sigma actively promotes individual responsibility within the University, as well as exemplary conduct among its members.

IVY

Ivy, East Campus sophomore honorary, encourages scholarship and stimulates intellectual curiosity among women students. Founded in 1937 by the class of 1940, the honorary taps members after the first semester of their freshman year or in the fall of their sophomore year. Current membership requirements are a 3.25 scholastic average for the first semester or a 3.5 for the whole year, but it has recently been voted to raise the requirements to 3.5 for the first semester also. Ivy annually co-sponsors with the Phi Eta Sigma a banquet to honor all freshmen with a 3.0 average or better on their mid-semester grades. The honorary also presents the annual Dorm Scholarship Cup to the East Campus house with the highest scholastic average and provides guides for the Angier B. Duke Scholarship Finalists' Weekend.

PHI ETA SIGMA

The national sophomore honory, Phi Eta Sigma, was organized specifically for the purpose of recognizing and encouraging academic excellence. The major activities of the group include special tutoring assistance to freshmen and participation as discussion leaders in the Special Advisory Program. Each year, the members of Phi Eta Sigma hold a banquet with Ivy to honor those freshmen who have a "B" average at mid-semester. Freshmen who attain a 3.5 quality-point ratio for the fall semester or a 3.5 for the entire year are eligible to be tapped. With the encouragement of its sponsor, Dr. Harold W. Lewis, Phi Eta Sigma has become an administrative structure for academic leadership throughout the year.

ARNOLD AIR SOCIETY

A national honorary, the Arnold Air Society salutes outstanding AFROTC cadets. Students in both Advanced and Basic Air Science courses who have maintained an overall 2.0 average and have demonstrated outstanding military leadership are eligible for membership. The Society was founded in 1944 in honor of General "Hap" Arnold, the the Commander of the Army Air Forces during World War

II. Since 1950, the Duke chapter has followed the lead of the national organization in promoting good citizenship in the "air age." The Society's program includes direction of the Civil Air Patrol program, instruction in drill procedure at neighboring primary and secondary schools, and an annual competition for local AFROTC and NROTC drill teams.

CORSAIRS SOCIETY

The Corsairs Society was founded in 1958 to recognize significant student contributions in the naval reserve program. For the past five years, the organization has promoted interest in naval activities by honoring outstanding midshipmen and by increasing "esprit de corps" in the NROTC. Membership is open to juniors and seniors with a "B" average in Naval Science courses and an overall 2.0 quality-point ratio. The individual's attitude toward the NROTC program and its work is also used as a selective criterion. Currently, the University chapter is working toward membership in a national naval honorary.

Tau Beta Pi is a national honorary for junior and senior engineering students who have demonstrated both exemplary character and scholastic ability. At Duke, the top 12% of the junior engineering class is eligible for membership, along with the upper-fifth of the senior class. The local chapter was founded in January, 1948, for the purpose of recognizing those who have distinguished themselves as undergraduates or alumni and to foster a spirit of liberal culture in the College of Engineering. As part of its program for the fall semester, the society sponsored a series of lectures on correct slide rule procedure. Members are tapped twice each year; on each occasion, the ceremony is followed by an initiation banquet.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI

In joining Alpha Kappa Psi, business, accounting, and economics majors have the opportunity to share common problems and to augment classroom learning with practical experience. Chartered in 1929, the society was one of the first organizations founded at Duke; it is now a chapter of the oldest and largest professional fraternity in Business Administration. Activities include lectures by guest speakers and several interesting field trips each year. The program is designed to foster research, to educate the public to appreciate and demand high standards in the fields of commerce, accounts, and finance, and to promote an interest in courses leading to a degree in Business Administration. Any interested undergraduate with a 2.0 average will be considered for membership.

TAU PSI OMEGA

Established in 1932 as "Le Salon Français" through the efforts of Dr. and Mrs. Neal Dow, a group of students interested in French was chartered, in 1938, as the Alpha chapter of Tau Psi Omega, the national honorary French fraternity. To become members, students must maintain a "B" average in French studies and an over-all "C" average, and be reasonably fluent in the language.

Students wishing to further their knowledge of France and things Gallic are invited to the French table—"La Table Française"—, sponsored by the honorary, each Tuesday evening in the East Campus Union. The chapter annually produces a major French play, featuring an all-student cast, and sponsors several French picnics.

¿Habla español? Have a 2.8 average with a 3.0 in Spanish? These are the qualifications for membership in Sigma Delta Pi, the national Spanish honorary in its twenty-fifth year at Duke. Initiates to this organization may look forward to banquets and picnics, talks by professors on a variety of subjects, and informal gatherings in the homes of members of the Spanish department. By such means, Sigma Delta Pi hopes to create in its members a wider knowledge of the appreciation for Hispanic contributions to culture, and to provide a nucleus of Spanish language activities for those with special interest and ability in that subject.

The Duke chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, a national education honorary, was founded thirty-six years ago. The organization encourages high personal, professional, and intellectual standards for prospective teachers, while recognizing the contributions made by those planning to teach. To be eligible for membership, juniors, seniors, and graduate students must rank scholastically in the upper fifth of their respective class and must maintain a "B" average in education courses. To prepare students to meet the challenges facing future leaders in education, the society sponsors monthly meetings and luncheons with noted guest speakers and a spring picnic and banquet.

PI MU EPSILON

In 1932, the North Carolina Alpha Chapter of Pi Mu Epsilon was founded at the University to stimulate interest in mathematics and to recognize outstanding scholarship in that field. The society's requirements for membership are those set by the national organization. A candidate for membership must have a 3.0

average in mathematics and an overall 3.0. The honorary meets twice each year to greet new members. At these sessions, professors and seniors majoring in mathematics discuss progress and opportunity in mathematics and related technical areas.

1962-1963 was a year of transition for Delta Mu Tau, the national music honorary. Although one of the oldest groups on campus, the society got a new start and a new name during the past year. Originally founded at Duke in 1922 under the name Kappa Kappa Psi, the honorary was revived in 1958, after suspending activities during World War II. Delta Mu Tau recognizes outstanding musicians and enthusiastic band members and requires that candidates for membership have participated in either the Concert Band or the Marching Band. The group's program is, in part, devoted to receiving and entertaining visiting musical groups and to planning and arranging the annual High School Band Day.

In April of 1959, Delta Chi Epsilon, a local scholastic honorary, was founded by eight senior civil engineering students and a representative of the College of Engineering faculty. This past year, the group's principal concern was drawing up a petition for membership in Chi Epsilon, the national civil engineering honorary. The aim of the organization is to contribute to the improvement of professional standards by encouraging the development of individual character and the exercise of technical skills. To qualify for membership, the undergraduate must, as a junior, rank in the upper fifth of his class or, as a senior, in the upper third.

DELTA CHI EPSILON

The tapping of women for membership in Delta Phi Rho Alpha, the local athletic honorary, is based upon outstanding participation and leadership in the sports program of the Woman's College. Rising juniors and seniors are elected each spring. The society has had a long history on campus; it was organized in 1921. By its active participation in various intramural and individual sports, the group hopes to increase student interest and enthusiasm for the athletic program. The organization, in fact, favors the expansion of the present athletic program for women. Each year, Delta Phi Rho Alpha presents a gold key to the senior who has shown the greatest interest in the society's program.

Formerly a local group, Psi Chi Delta became affiliated in 1958 with the national psychology honorary Psi Chi. In order to stimulate interest and recognize achievement in the field of psychology, the group holds monthly meetings to which guest speakers are invited to speak on various topics of primary and related concern. One of the functions of the organizations is the publishing of a newsletter containing the current research of individual members. To be eligible for membership, Psi Chi Delta requires that an applicant be a psychology major with at least six hours of credit in the department. Also, he must have a 3.0 psychology course average and a 2.8 over-all.

The Order of Hippocrates, honorary society of the Duke University Pre-Medical Society, was founded in 1955 to honor those students who have been active in extra-curriculars and who show promise of going on to successful careers in medicine. Requirements for induction are membership in the Pre-Med Society, an overall 3.0 quality-point ratio with a minimum of 75 semester hours, and a "B" average in the pre-medical sciences. Members of the Order contribute to Caduceus, the pre-med monthly, which also features reports by former Duke students who are now practicing M.D.'s.

The Order of St. Patrick was established on campus in 1945. Its open purposes—the society is a secret order—are to inspire pride in the College of Engineering, to stimulate student interest and participation in the extra-curricular activities of the College, and to foster better student-faculty relations. Since its inception, the Order has recognized those men who have demonstrated definite leadership ability. The group bases its membership qualifications on a point-system, which considers achievement in the classroom and laboratory and in the activities program. Eligible juniors and seniors are tapped in December. This past year, Dr. Charles Harmon became faculty advisor to the Order.

Pi Tau Sigma, a national mechanical engineering honorary, was founded at Duke in 1944. It accepts for membership only those in the top 25% of the junior class or in the top 35% of the senior mechanical engineering class. The goals of the group are three-fold: to stimulate interest in departmental activities, to develop co-operation among the various branches of the College of Engineering, and to foster the high ideals of the engineering profession. To further these goals, Pi Tau Sigma each year gives, to the sophomore mechanical engineering major attaining the highest average, an Outstanding Sophomore Award. It also presents an award to the major who presents the best engineering paper in class or in professional society competition. Rounding out its activities are review lectures for the E.I.T. exam and an initiation banquet.

Members of Sigma Pi Sigma have the distinction of belonging to the second oldest chapter of the only national physics honorary in existence today. Requiring for membership an overall 3.0 plus a "B" average in a minimum of eleven hours of physics, the group gives recognition only to students of proven ability who show promise of future achievement. During the year, the society sponsors informal get-togethers, as well as lectures by eminent faculty members and visiting physicists. Also on the annual agenda are preparations for the fall and spring picnics of the Physics Department. Through its activities, the Duke chapter helps to uphold the tradition of national Sigma Pi Sigma, which limits the use of its name to accredited colleges and universities offering a challenging program in physics.

The goal of Pi Sigma Alpha is to promote excellence in political science and to stimulate an interest in the subject among society members and on the general campus. Accordingly, the group includes both faculty and students who have shown excellence in the field. Membership requirements include a 3.0 average in at least ten hours of political science courses as well as rank in the upper third of the applicant's class. Pi Sigma Alpha annually sponsors both lectures and seminars which are of interest to the entire University Community. This year, the members invited Leon Volhov, an editor of Newsweek, to speak on communism and arranged a spring seminar on our changing world.

The Duke chapter of Theta Alpha Pi, national dramatics honorary, was reactivated on campus in 1958. The group seeks to create an interest in the theater by recognizing achievement in the dramatic arts. Students who have made a significant contribution to the theater on campus are accepted as members. The individual may make his mark in one or more areas: acting, directing, writing, publicity, or in the technical aspects of production. Theta Alpha Pi holds its initiation ceremonies twice each year, as new members are selected at the beginning of each semester.

IN MEMORIAM

Horace Alexander Inman, Jr. 1941-1962

As he was an outstanding member of the Duke community, the Horace A. Inman, Jr. Citizenship Award is given by his parents and the brotherhood of Phi Kappa Sigma. The award is to be presented annually to recognize and encourage fraternity leadership, participation and integrity within the fraternity system and within Duke University.
